When Germany Is Ready. Dr. Eddy's Mother Rat. Shock for Best Minds. Aiming at the U. S. A.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GEN. KURT VON SCHLEICHER, spokesman for the German war ministry, says:

"Under the agreement at Geneva, Germany has a right to restore her fighting power and WILL DO IT unless other nations disarm."

Other nations will not disarm, therefore Germany undoubtedly will re-enter the list of fighting nations.

You can imagine how some of the Allies would feel, should they suddenly find Germany and Italy united under energetic dictators.

What would this country answer if European countries thus menaced should come to us again, saying:

"Kindly oblige with ten billion more dollars and three million more men?"

DR. WALTER H. EDDY yesterday showed the writer two of his laboratory mothers, a white rat and a yellow guinea pig, living under sanitary conditions, in wire cages, each of the mothers nursing an interesting little family in the office laboratory of Good Housekeeping magazine. There are seven tiny, snow-white, pink-eyed beings in the rat mother's family.

The interesting thing about her is that she COULD and WOULD have a family once every month. Dr. Eddy limits her to three families a year, much better for her health.

Some human mothers, told that it is wicked to use birth control, a rule dating back to days when kings wanted plenty of soldiers, must wish they were included in Dr. Eddy's white rat family.

THE MOTHER guinea pig has three healthy children most as big as herself and there is something interesting about her.

Dr. Eddy lent her to a fellow scientist, making experiments on animals with bootleg liquor. At exactly 10 o'clock every morning the guinea pig got her supply of alcohol and, sad to relate, she liked it.

Experiments ended some time ago and she is back in Dr. Eddy's care, but every morning at exactly 10 o'clock she squeals violently for her alcohol. Fortunately her innocent children do not know what their mother wants.

Dr. Eddy, scientist of Columbia College, is retained by William Biglow, editor of Good Housekeeping Magazine, to test for purity and nourishment all food products that offer advertising to Good Housekeeping. He carries on the work formerly done by Dr. Wylie.

HERE IS more news to make our "best minds" ponder, muse and fret. Ponca City, Okla., according to the Associated Press, takes no taxes from its citizens, because it makes enough profit from publicly-owned water and light plants to pay all city expenses, and this in spite of the fact that rates charged for water and light have been reduced twice in the last two years.

Stillwater, another Oklahoma city, is TAX FREE, thanks to public ownership. In the state of Kansas, Chanute, Colby, Augusta and Beloit are, as you have been told, four tax free cities. "BOLSHEVISM," our "best minds" will say.

THE BRITISH Empire, with representatives of all its sections in Ottawa, appears bent on "doing something for silver." It will be interesting to know what the something is.

Also, something will be done about "going after" great manufacturing concerns in which American citizens have invested five hundred million dollars in various parts of Canada.

Britons feel that Americans should not manufacture inside their tariff walls, and draw out profits, into American pockets. That may be sound reasoning. Time will tell.

British shipping, using American docks and carrying American mail, makes a fair profit in good times. Something might be done in that direction to remind our good friends that few things in this world are entirely one sided.

IT IS POSSIBLE to economize, if you will. Mayor Walker, of New York, who has suggested a reduction in municipal salaries, including his own, of 8 1-3 per cent, saving many millions, now suggests cutting down real estate assessments by fifteen hundred million dollars, which would save property owners close to forty millions in 1933, and yearly thereafter.

It is a rich city that can suggest cutting assessments a billion and a half.

WHILE SOME western countries lose faith in "capitalism," farmers in Canada demanding an end of it, our queer, always interesting friends in Russia are turning back toward the flesh pots of capitalism. First, artificers were permitted to sell as they chose articles made by them. Now farmers around Moscow are allowed to sell products without restrictions except as regards grain.

It is the steel mainspring that makes the watch go.

The spring of inborn selfishness makes human beings go. You will have to get rid of that spring before you get rid of private profit capitalism, and other things based on selfishness.

CHEVALIERS URGED TO 'MAKE UP'

Mistinguett Drops Old Feud for Role of Peacemaker

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, July 28.—Abandoning her 6-year feud with the smiling screen star who was once her protege, Mlle. Mistinguett, perennial darling of the Paris music halls, stepped in today to save the marriage of Maurice Chevalier and Yvonne Vallee from disaster.

She pleaded with Mlle. Vallee to consent to a reconciliation and thus bring Chevalier's divorce proceedings to an end. She urged continuation of their happy marriage in preference to the new romance that Mlle. Valle predicted would "bloom and blossom" between them after she and Chevalier have been divorced.

PLEADS FOR REUNION

Using all the persuasion at her command, Mlle. Mistinguett, to whom no single item of Parisian theatrical life is secret, tabulated all the women with whose names Chevalier's has been linked and insisted that in each case there are no ground for jealousy.

She told Mlle. Vallee she has confidential information that Jeannette MacDonald, Chevalier's leading lady, is the secret bride of Bob Ritchie, her manager, and that therefore there is nothing to fear in this quarter.

Marlene Dietrich, whom many insist Chevalier plans to marry in the future, was nothing more than a close movie lot friend, Mistin-

MAN AGED 60 FOILS HOLDUP

A bit of advice to stickup men: Avoid W. J. McConnell, who, for all of his 60 years, is not one to trifle with.

Mr. McConnell, a druggist of 813 South Aiken avenue, was parked in his auto in Friendship avenue near the West Penn Hospital this afternoon when two young bandits hopped in, shoved him out of the driver's seat and announced they were taking him for a ride.

Well, before Mr. McConnell was through with them they had not only taken to their heels, but he had captured their pearl-handled revolver.

They did beat him up a bit, but Mr. McConnell dropped into the hospital and had his son, Dr. Thomas W. McConnell, and his nephew, Dr. W. E. McConnell, patch him up.

Senate Votes Ainey Quiz Fund

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(AP.)—The Senate today set aside $150,000 to finance its investigation of Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Public Service Commission.

Of the total, $25,000 is to cover expenses of the preliminary inquiry completed yesterday, and the balance is for the more complete investigation directed as the result of the special committee's report.

The appropriation was introduced during the revision of the general appropriations upon which the Senate will vote finally Monday night.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—Germany's Chancellor, Franz von Papen, will be heard over the radio tomorrow night. He will broadcast to America from Berlin at midnight Friday (7 p. m. daylight saving time in New York). His address will be cleared over the Red network of WEAF. He will be introduced by Karl von Wiegand, noted newspaper correspondent, who will make a 7-minute talk on the election situation in Germany.

BERLIN, July 28.—(AP.)—Democracy in Germany was given only a few more days of life today by Adolf Hitler, fiery National Socialist leader.

Winding up a dashing airplane campaign for next Sunday's elections with a speech at Berlin stadium last night, Hitler brought thunderous cheers from 100,000 of his followers when he said:

"July 31 must remove the rule of democracy and of Marxism and its vassals from Germany and restore a regime of discipline, national conscience, honor and power.

Carol Agrees to Exile Magda Lupescu

BUCHAREST, July 28.—(INS.)—Putting affairs of state before his affair of the heart, King Carol II, of Rumania, has agreed to keep Mme. Magda Lupescu, his companion during five years of exile, out of Bucharest for a short while at least, it was reported by the Nationalist newspaper Dimineaza today.

Juliu Maniu, Peasant Party leader who emerged from the recent parliamentary elections the most powerful figure in the country, issued an ultimatum to Carol yesterday demanding that the King's favorite be dismissed.

The ultimatum was issued at a reconciliation meeting between Carol and the former Premier. Maniu agreed to the King's request to form a cabinet only on condition that Mme. Lupescu be sent from Bucharest.

Alexander Vajda Vojvod, who recently succeeded Prof. Nikolas Jorga as premier, tendered his resignation today, opening the way for Maniu's return to power.

Every Dollar of War Debts Canceled Adds To America's Tax Load

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN WE WERE prosperous and Europe was prostrate there was more reason than there is today for listening patiently to pleas that foreign war debts should be canceled.

I found myself inclined to lean toward something approaching cancellation.

As I see it, there are now unanswerable arguments against cancellation under existing and prospective circumstances.

First—American taxpayers are staggering under a fourteen thousand million—fourteen billion—dollar tax bill this year, equivalent to $500 for each family in the United States.

Second—So severely has the income of the American people dwindled that taxes this year will absorb fully one dollar out of every four earned, a percentage never before equaled.

Third—In the absence of a general sales tax, and in view of the unscientific levies imposed, it will be impossible for a vast number of taxpayers to meet their tax obligations.

Fourth—Every dollar of war debts canceled would simply add to the already crushing tax load fastened on American taxpayers.

Fifth—America is no longer prosperous and Europe prostrate.

SIXTH—EUROPE, especially France, has exhibited intense hostility toward this country, and has striven viciously to undermine our currency and financial stability.

Seventh—We no longer hold almost one-half of the world's total stock of gold. Our supply has been reduced approximately a billion, while the Bank of France has added still more to its store, giving France far more gold per capita than America possesses.

Eighth—European nations, while pleading poverty, have just refused to cut down drastically their colossal expenditures on armaments, expenditures EXCEEDING TEN TIMES THEIR ANNUAL DEBT PAYMENTS TO US. They can find billions for enginery of war but cannot afford—so they claim—to PAY WHAT THEY OWE US.

Ninth—There has already been a succession of foreign blows dealt at America's international commerce.

Tenth—At this moment governmental representatives from the United Kingdom and every land composing the far-flung British Empire are gathered in Ottawa for the express purpose of making it easier for British commonwealths to trade with one another and more difficult for the United States and other nations to obtain a share of their trade.

WERE THE UNITED STATES to cancel British, French and other war debts due us, we would be gratuitously throwing away the most effective weapon for dealing with foreign competitors in world markets, competitors who have already shown eagerness to injure our foreign trade, eager to shut out American products by arbitrarily forbidding their importation or by fixing absurdly low quotas.

"Cancellation of Europe's debts would hasten European recovery," we are told by cancellationists.

Naturally. You and I would love to have all our debts magnanimously wiped out.

"Recovery in Europe would mean recovery for America," we are also told.

LIFTING TAX BURDENS from Europe's shoulders and piling them on the shoulders of America, the shoulders of American taxpayers, would certainly not mean "recovery for America." That fatuous course is hardly calculated to enhance our ability to hold our own in the world markets, hardly calculated to increase our ability or produce at low cost, hardly calculated to make it easier for us to pay taxes of fourteen billions plus the amount transferred from Europeans to American citizens and American business enterprise.

BUT CANCELLATION AT THIS TIME, IN FACE OF THE STERN FACTS, SURELY WOULD BE STUPID AND SHORTSIGHTED STATESMANSHIP.

STONES, MACES WIELDED AS 'ARMY' DEFIES EVICTION ORDER

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Following a conference with Treasury officials, Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police, told leaders of the Bonus Army that there would be no further evictions today from Pennsylvania avenue federal property.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Brickbats hurtled through the air and police nightsticks swung into action today in a clash between bonus-seeking war veterans and police a short while after some of the former service men had been evicted from their shelters on lower Pensylvania avenue, near the Capitol.

The veterans, described by Walter W. Waters, their commander-in-chief, as members of the radical wing of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, suddenly began hurling bricks at the police.

The officers retreated, all the while using their clubs.

Several officers pulled their revolvers for use if necessary, but no shots were fired.

Blood was spilled in the clash, and many arrests made.

Every policeman available was ordered to the lower Pennsylvania avenue section to guard against any contingencies.

Meanwhile, thousands of veterans from other encampments marched to the scene, some of them picking up bricks and stones en route.

THOUSAND VETS MASS

A thousand or more came over from the main camp at Anacostia Flats and broke through the police lines. There were reports that the entire bonus army was preparing to march on Washington, and a drawbridge was raised to prevent this mass movement.

In the melee, Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, was hit by a brick and his badge was torn off his coat. Later, it was restored by one of the veterans.

Waters, in a conference with Glassford, told the police chief the men were out of his control. Some of the former soldiers were reported to have pulled revolvers, but none had been fired.

At least two veterans and three policemen were injured in the fight and taken to hospitals. The veterans were under arrest.

The row developed a short while after the government, through Attorney General Mitchell, had ordered the complete evacuation of all veterans from government property.

WILL CLEAR AREA

Officials of the Treasury, which desires to go ahead with a building program on the site of the shacks from which the veterans are being driven, said the entire area would be evacuated at once regardless of the consequences.

As police reserves from every precinct reached the scene, the brick-throwing veterans yelled and booed and shouted:

"eLt's run them out."

Glassford maneuvered the reserves in such a way that the veterans' army was broken up into a number of sections, some on the lot, which workmen had begun to clear, and others across the streets.

Night officers who had been off duty but a few hours were roused from bed and hurriedly sent to

2 Fliers Decorated During Bonus Melee

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS.)—John Polando and Russell Boardman received distinguished flying crosses from the hands of President Hoover today for their record-breaking flight to Turkey a year ago to accompaniment of the wailing screams of ambulances carrying injured policemen from the scene of the first serious conflict between bonus marchers and the law.

The White House was under heavy police guard.

BOMBINGS ROCK ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—Two explosions and a fire early today wrecked an Atlantic avenue building occupied by the office and gymnasium of Vincent Martino, once a Georgetown University star athlete.

The blasts, believed by police to have been caused by bombs, threw the neighborhood into a near panic and police reserves were called out to control the crowd that gathered.

Martino, promoter and ward politician, was in bed at his home a few blocks away at the time. He was awakened, with hundreds of others, by the explosions and hurried to the building.

The building also houses the office of Edward Nappen, a magistrate, and the Paddock Club, a social organization. It was empty at the time of the blasts, so far as police could learn.

Broken Water Main Slows Up Traffic

One-way traffic on the William Penn-Lincoln highway on Penn avenue, between Wood and Center streets, Wilkinsburg, was enforced for several hours today when a 10-inch water main broke. Water spouted to the street surface in several places, but did no serious damage.

the scene in the mobilization order.

VETERANS MASS

The scattered veterans' encampments at Anacostia and other places in the southern section, were deserted, their inhabitants having started individually or in groups the Pennsylvania avenue site.

At the height of the melee, Glassford stopped the men at police ropes and asked to confer with company leaders.

One small veteran, apparently the leader of the attack, attempted to urge the men on again. He had been struck with a brick and the right side of his face was covered with blood. Police seized him and put him in a patrol wagon.

Police reinforcements poured in constantly, motor sirens screaming and officers were ready for action with their clubs.

Tear gas bombs were ready, but were not used.

Several minor clashes preceded the wild affray. One huge Negro struck at an officer. It took six policemen to subdue him and put him in a patrol wagon.

CROWDS SCATTER

Some of the other veterans attempted to interfere with the arrest, but were forced back as officers were reinforced and ordered the cowds to scatter.

This clash came while members of the bonus army still were removing their belongings from the building which had just been repossessed by Treasury officials.

The whole trouble started with the razing of one of the veterans' shacks by workmen under police protection. A large group was removed from the shelter, some forcibly.

At least two arrests were made of veterans who refused to leave voluntarily and were hustled out by police.

Under instructions of the Treasury, wrecking crews had been sent to the site early this morning to tear down the structure.

Balked for a time in beginning destruction of the building by refusal of the veterans to leave, the Treasury employes finally began operations on the ground floor of the three-story structure.

OUSTED VET GRINS

They walked up to a group of veterans standing in the doorway, took one by the arm and marched him off the property. The man put up no resistance and smiled at his escort.

While the first men were being led off others on the upper floors and on the roof waved American flags and cheered. Large numbers of other veterans crowded about and watched the proceeding.

The ground floor was cleared without difficulty amidst considerable razzing from veterans on the upper floors and on the roof.

The only way to get to the second floor was up a ladder-like stairway. When the Treasury agents arrived on that floor they met their first resistance.

A large Negro declared that he was unable to walk down the stairway "because the height makes me dizzy."

After his refusal, the Treasury agents started to pick him up bodily. When he resisted he was arrested.

Officers bumped him down the steps as he shouted at the top of his voice:

"Don't hit me! Don't hit me! I'm a citizen, I'm a citizen."

GOES IN PATROL

Still shouting "Don't hit me," he was placed in a patrol wagon and hauled away. Glassford, standing in the group of veterans on the second floor, joined with everyone else in hearty laughter.

Others on the second floor came down the narrow stairway without resistance.

A second man arrested gave his name as Ralph McCabe, of Toledo, O. He came peaceably with the officers after being placed under arrest, but refused to budge until actually taken into custody.

McCabe was smiling, and seemed to take it as a joke. He shouted back to fellow veterans, who responded with a cheer:

"I'm going for a ride in the buggy."

Another veteran caused a laugh when he refused to carry a packing case containing his belongings. He swaggered down the walk with a policeman while two other officers carried his luggage for him.

Waters was addressing a mass meeting of his followers on the site when the order arrived from the Treasury.

He promptly informed his men of what was taking place and told them to govern their future actions with great care, or they would be in conflict with the federal government.

Speech making continued among the veterans. They seemed divided on the plea made by Waters, some insisting that they stay.

WOMAN DONATES FUND

Waters told the men that funds to begin construction of permanent barracks at Camp Bartlett in Anacostia had "not come from federal employes, but from one woman here in the city who has money."

Waters maintained he did not desire to make any veteran act against his own will and based his plea on the argument that it would benefit the bonus army in the long run to evacuate and form a permanent camp. He said:

"I knew we wouldn't get our bonus in this last Congress. I knew we would have to stay a long time. That's why I have been planning this permanent camp."

Waters' appeal to the men to move peacefully to another camp was received with boos from some of the men.

When he asked for a show of hands on how many would leave, only a few indicated their willingness to depart from their shanty town along one of the world's most famous streets.

WATERS DOES 'BEST'

Waters turned to a police officer and said:

"You see how it is. I have done the best I could for the best interests of everyone."

A meeting of the men occupying the building marked for destruction was called. They voted 18 to 5 against vacating the structure and one of this number took an American flag and climbed up on the roof where he sat waving it.

A few gathered up their belongings and left. But the others stuck tight for the time being.

Large crowds were gathered along Pennsylvania avenue and police had difficulty in keeping traffic moving.

About 40 former soldiers crowded into the building to be demolished after its regular occupants had voted not to get out.

A stentorian-voiced Texan stood at the front of the building and shouted:

"Come on, all you bums, and let's stay in here. What difference does it make if you do get hit with a brick? Do you expect to live forever?"

There was one woman in the building. She took her place on the ground floor. She said:

"I am Mrs. Mary Brown, of Los Angeles. Yes, I have children, but none here. I am going to stay."

SING BONUS SONG

While the second floor eviction was going on those on the roof sang war time songs mixed with various parodies.

Cheers arose from veterans across the street when they sang the following:

"My bonus lies over the ocean,
My bonus lies over the sea,
They gave the dough to the Frenchman,
And they won't give my bonus to me."

Waters stood on a dump heap close by and watched the eviction. He was wet with perspiration, being dressed in riding breeches, heavy woolen socks and boots and a woolen shirt.

Some of the men being evicted who did not agree with Waters' policy shouted "Puss in Boots" at him. The bonus army leader ignored the razzing.

Within less than an hour after the first man had been led out, every veteran in the brick structure had been removed. The last to go was the man on the roof who had been waving an American flag.

Attorney General Mitchell in defining the government policy said:

"There is no longer any excuse or justification for the assemblage in Washington of these men.

"They are trespassers on government property, much of which is immediately needed for erection of public improvements.

LAWS VIOLATED

"Many of them are violating the laws of the District by holding unlawful assemblies in the street, obstructing traffic, disorderly conduct, begging and other acts. Their refusal to leave government property and resisting removal is an offense against the law, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

"It is high time this conduct should end. There is no reason why these men should not obey the laws of the District just as every resident of the District is expected ot do. In removing them from government property entirely lawful methods are available. Under the law it is not necessary to resort to the court for ejectment decrees. Methods are legally prescribed for the summary removal and the necessary steps will be taken accordingly.

"In addition to the steps looking toward their eviction because of their trespassing on government property, steps are being taken to co-rrdinate the work of arrest and prosecution for any and all violations of the law.

ARRESTS PROMISED

"Arrest will be made for all violations, and arrangements have been made for co-operation between the District Attorney's office and presecuting attorneys in the office of the Corporation Counsel to expedite these cases, present them to the courts, and to urge substantial sentences and to arrange proper prison accomodation in the District Jail, the Occoquan Workhouse and the prison at Lorton for any number of persons who may be convicted.

"No one has any disposition to be unduly harsh in these matters, but it is hoped that these men and their leaders will realize that the illegal possession of government property and other unlawful conduct cannot be longer tolerated, an dthat they will yield to the inevitable and obey the law."

Divers for 69 Bodies Delayed by Wreckage

KIEL, Germany, July 28.—(AP.)—Naval authorities said today it would take several days at least to recover the bodies of 69 men who went down Tuesday with the German naval training ship Niobe.

Divers have reported the tangled sails and masts blocking entries to the vessel first must be removed.

Stocks Rally From 1 to 5 Points

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—Wall street received another taste of those bull market days so familiar in the memorable 1929 era today, and with speculative enthusiasm for the advance running rampant, the stock list climbed up from 1 to more than 5 points.

American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Du Pont and General Motors were among the issues riding the crest of popularity.

The pronounced strength in the dollar, the further advance in bond prices, renewed improvement in commodities, principally wheat, whetted the speculative appetite for common stocks.

There was a slight recession in prices near the close.

Chinese Chains Boy To Bed After Theft

BOSTON, July 28.—(INS.)—12-year-old James Kai, one of seven children of Leon Kai, was found chained to a bed today in his home over his father's Chinese restaurant in Hyde Park.

The father, according to police, admitted he had chained the boy to a bedpost with an automobile chain for two weeks. The boy had been caught stealing money from the restaurant cash register, the father said.

NEW MOVE SEEN IN WASHINGTON ON DEBTS

Mellon Believed Bearer Of Proposal Despite Denials

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Official assertions to the contrary, an impression was widespread in Washington today that the administration is considering some new move in the matter of war debts and world economics.

On leaving the White House yesterday afternoon Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to Great Britain, said:

"I have given the President a complete report on everything of interest in Europe."

Admittedly that included debts.

EDGE'S WORDS SIGNIFICANT

The declaration by Walter E. Edge, ambassador to France, in a conference with Premier Herriot of a "more flexible attitude" by the Hoover administration on European problems, was viewed as significant. State Department officials said they had not been advised of such a conversation.

The Edge declaration conforms so closely, however, to parts of the speech by Senator Borah in advocating debt cancellation in return for disarmament and economic measures by Europe as to occasion renewed speculation as to whether the Senator's "trial balloon" was not an administration project.

WATSON FIRM

The talk of some weakening of the Hoover administration against debts cancellation has become so persistent that Senator Watson, of Indiana, administration leader in the Senate, repeated what he told Universal Service Sunday:

"I am opposed to any international conference to discuss debts until we have some evidence of good faith on the part of Europe in the matter of reduction of armaments and preparation for future wars."

Prior to his conference with the President, Ambassador Mellon conferred with Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Mellon continued his conferences with governmental heads today. Newspapermen who asked him if he saw "prosperity around the corner" received this wry reply:

"I have not been here long enough to look around the corner."

Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to England, is expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow from Washington, he said yesterday in a long-distance telephone conversation with Senator David A. Reed.

Truck Crushes Man, Pittsburgher Held

ALTOONA, Pa., July 28.—Howard J. Kosslow, of Pittsburgh, was held on a manslaughter charge today, in connection with the death of Miles E. Weaver, 56, of Altoona, last night. Police said Kosslow's truck leaped a curb and crushed Weaver against a building.

Princess Leopold Of Bavaria Dies

ECONOMY BILL REPORTED FOR FINAL VOTE

Measure Likely to Meet Approval Of Governor

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(AP.)—The Steedle economy bill, amended to provide $13,967,623 in government cost reductions as compared with its original $22,232,000 total, was re-reported for final passage in the Senate today.

This is a reduction of $4,917,374 from the $18,874,000 total to which the bill was reduced in the Senate last week. In its present form the $13,967,000 will provide for restoration of $6,407,000 in abated appropriations, meet the expected deficit of $5,000,000 in the budget for the current fiscal year and leave $2,000,000 for an emergency appropriation to state-aided hospitals.

The bill has the approval of the Governor if no other changes are made.

COMMISSIONS OUT

The bill permits the Greater Pennsylvania Council and the State Aeronautics Commission to wind up their affairs and pass out of existence.

The last $4,000,000 cut in the bill was made by restoring $2,800,000 in state payments to the teachers' retirement fund; $600,000 for universities and colleges; $150,000 for animal indemnity, restoring this item to its original appropriation of $2,000,000; $100,000 to the Department of Revenue and $150,000 to the Department of Labor and Industry for rehabilitation work among handicapped persons and for enforcements of laws protecting women and children in industry.

Other restorations will permit forestry work to be continued by the state and an additional allowance to the Department of Justice.

Restorations to Mothers' Assistance funds, state-aided hospitals, state-aided homes and state-owned hospitals as provided last week are unchanged.

BUDGET BALANCED

The Governor said yesterday that this bill in its present form with the assistance of revenues from a franchise tax on foreign corporations, will barely balance the budget by restoring abatements in appropriations, resulting from the enactment of the 1931 Talbot $10,000,000 poor relief bill, and meeting the expected budget deficit of $5,000,000.

Almost 20 companion bills in the economy program already sent to the Governor were recalled today to permit amendments in conformity with the new total of the Steedle bill. It is expected that the state will pass the Steedle bill Monday night and that all of the economy bills in their amended form will be sent to the Governor for his approval by the middle of next week.

The Senate, having received the appropriations committee report, adjourned until Monday night at 8 o'clock. Action on third-reading bills was postponed.

HITLER SEES REPUBLIC FALL

united people. We are on the eve of great historical decisions. The 13 years of decadence (the life of the republic) are nearing an end.

"We don't believe in the possibilities for international aid, but only in aid founded on our own strength."

The Tuesday night radio speech of Gen. Kurt von Schleicher von tinued to kick up a furore throughout the country. The Bavarian Courier, powerful organ of the Southern Volkspartei, said the General's reference to strengthening Germany's military power was hardly reconcilable with Chancellor von Papen's efforts for conciliation with France.

Von Schleicher's indorsement of Hitler's theory that the Reichswehr (army) alone is responsible for Germany's defense also brought down a crash of criticism.

The Munich Post, Socialist newspaper, observed that the day might soon come when von Schleicher would be "woefully disillusioned."

Hitler's campaign posters today set him up as "Germany's Oliver Cromwell" and referred to Cromwell's words, uttered as he closed the British Parliament and established his dictatorship nearly 300 years ago—"Take away that bauble!"

PREMIER'S THREAT

The National Socialist Premier Roever, of Oldenburg, where a Nazi state government is in control, went one better than Hitler, who has said that "heads shall roll" when the Nazis come into power in the nation.

In a speech at Kasel, referring to the opponents of the Nazis, Roever said:

"I guarantee that these schweinehunde will be hanged and we'll leave their bodies swinging until the crowd have finished with them."

Three deaths and a number of injuries were recorded in political clashes last night. Police shot and killed one man in a group of unemployed at Ruhla after a battle in which three policemen were stabbed.

One Nazi was stabbed to death and another mortally wounded in a political argument at Oberwiehl, near Cologne.

Three persons were seriously wounded in a gun battle between Nazis and Iron Fronters (war veterans) at Boinsdorf, near Brunswick.

NEW TAXATION FOR STATE AID DEMANDED

Cigaret and Cosmetic Levies Planned In House

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, July 28.—Strong sentiment is growing among members of the House against the desire of the Senate to adjourn the special relief session of the Legislature next week. In the group fighting adjournment there is crystalizing insistence upon the passage of tax measures to provide revenue for relief.

If adjournment is voted next week no new tax measures would be possible, as none have been reported from the House Ways and Means Committee. This committee, however, plans to bring to the floor, next Monday night, a bill taxing cosmetics and soft drinks 10 per cent on gross sales, and a companion measure would place a tax of 1 cent on each 10 cigarets sold in the state.

$12,000,000 REVENUE

Estimated revenue from these proposals is $12,000,000, exactly the relief sum now proposed in the revised Talbot bill. As matters stand today, the Governor would veto this bill because no revenue is provided for its operation, and the net result of the special session would be no direct relief at all.

The so-called economy bill, originally aimed to cut $27,000,000 from the costs of government, has been changed until it now calls for expenditure reductions of less than $15,000,000. This sum, according to Gov. Pinchot, is only sufficient to balance the budget and restore the abatements in biennial appropriations to hospitals, mothers' assistance funds and state aided institutions made necessary by the $10,000,000 Talbot relief bill of the special session of last year.

Representative Sowers, Philadelphia, intends to report a bill for a flat 1 per cent income tax, with credits for prompt payment which would exempt incomes of $2,000 or less from tax.

Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton, is attempting to win favor for a bill taxing occupations.

TAX PLEA SPURRED

The sudden wave of tax sentiment in the House is the result of an outburst of oratory there yesterday, when member after member declared that in five weeks nothing concrete had been done toward relief for the needy.

In the Senate there is strong sentiment against new taxes, and this may bring a clash with the House.

The Senate will have for consideration next Monday night a constitutional amendment to permit the commonwealth to reimburse cities, counties and poor districts for expenditures they make for relief purposes. Amount of the proposed state bond issue for this purpose is reduced to $25,000,000—half the figure in the bill as it passed the House.

None of these bond issues can be applicable to the present emergency, as they must be approved by the regular session of 1933, then voted by the people in the fall of next year.

SUICIDE OF LADY RONALD SHOCKS MUSICAL WORLD

FAMOUS LEADER OF ORCHESTRA AT INQUEST

Conductor for Melba Links Illness to Action of Wife

International News Service.

LONDON, July 28.—London's musical world was shocked today when the Westminster Coroner returned a verdict of suicide in the death of Lady Ronald, wife of Sir Landon Ronald, internationally known composer and conductor of the Royal Albert Hall Orchestra.

Lady Ronald was 59 years old and a native of Germany. She died Monday as the result of a self-administered dose of poison, but there had been no hint of suicide until the Coroner's verdict was announced.

Testifying at the Coroner's inquest, Sir Landon revealed that his wife had been in an extremely nervous state for many months following an automobile accident last year in which she sustained head injuries.

Lady Ronald swallowed the poison on Sunday night. Medical treatment was unavailing and she died the next morning.

Sir Landon ranks with Sir Henry Wood, Sir Thomas Beecham and Alfred Coates as one of the most distinguished leaders of British music. He has been conductor of the Albert Hall Orchestra, now known as the New Symphony Orchestra, since 1908, and was responsible for the development of numerous musical organizations throughout the British Isles.

One of the most notable incidents in Sir Landon's early career occurred in 1894 when he visited the United States in the role of orchestral conductor for Dame Nellie Melba, the famous Australian singer.

'Other Women? It's All a Lie,' Friends Plead With Wife of Chevalier

MAURICE AND WIFE . . . 'YOU TAUGHT A NEW KIND OF LOVE'

The dashing screen comedian and Mlle. Vallee, against whom he has filed suit for divorce, during a happy moment in one of her visits to America. Now friends of both, headed by Mlle. Mistinguett, have stepped in to save the marriage from the rocks in Paris. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

MARLENE DIETRICH

The glamorous German movie star will not marry Chevalier, Paris acquaintances insist, disposing of rumors about his frequenting her dressing room on Hollywood motion picture lots by insisting he was paying only friendly calls to exchange jovial banter with his fellow-artist.

JEANETTE MacDONALD AND MAURICE . . IN A MOVIE SUCCESS

Miss MacDonald, Chevalier's leading lady in "The Smiling Lieutenant" and other pictures, is really the secret bride of Bob Ritchie, her manager, Mlle. Mistinguett insists, in her effort to convince Mme. Chevalier she has nothing to fear from Jeanette.

ROSIE DOLLY NETCHER

Member of the once-famous Dolly Sister act, who is assisting in the campaign to have the Chevalier divorce suit halted.

Mistinguett Drops Feud To Reconcile Chevaliers

guett told Mlle. Vallee, Chevalier frequented her dressing room in the traditional manner of show people, merely to exchange jovial banter and discuss things of interest to continental stars who have attained success in Hollywood.

And as far as Dauvia, Parisian cabaret singer, is concerned—that was only a "passing flirtation," Mlle. Mistinguett insisted.

SHATTERED ROMANCE

What success Mistinguett will have as a mender of shattered romance is a matter of pure speculation. Mlle. Vallee made it clear yesterday that she believed her love for Chevalier could not flourish under the bonds of matrimony and she capped her remarks with the declaration that she and the screen star would have a perfect right to live together after their divorce.

Mistinguett's plan of campaign was laid at a conference in the Cafe aux Puoupoles, a cabaret at Juan-les-Pins, attended by Harry Pilcer, Rosie Dolly Netcher, Maurice De Kobra and other colorful theatrical personalities.

Mistinguett then went to a telephone and called Mlle. Vallee at the obscure hotel where she is staying. Nothing is known of what Mlle. Vallee said in reply, but there is a distinct possibility she and Chevalier will confront one another in a "reconciliation meeting" before the divorce suit proceeds further.

CHEVALIER JEERED

Mistinguett and Chevalier, whose talent she was the first to discover, broke in 1926. A short while after, Maurice appeared alone at the Casino de Paris and earned himself an avalanche of hostile criticism by singing a song called "Thrown Out and Thrown Over," which contained barbed shafts at his former sponsor.

Since that time Chevalier and Mistinguett never appeared together on the same bill and neither ever entered a cabaret where the other was performing.

The romance of Chevalier and Mlle. Vallee reads like a fairy tale. A poorly-paid dancing girl in the Chevalier-Mistinguett show, Mlle. Vallee threw up her job when Maurice fell ill and almost starved herself to death to nurse him back to health.

This close friendship ripened, and soon after Chevalier announced his intention of marrying her. Mistinguett pleaded with him to remain single, insisting the romance would not last for more than two years, but Maurice turned a deaf ear.

The climax in the affair may come next week, when Chevalier is due to visit the Riviera after the Davis Cup tennis matches. Mlle. Vallee will be there and also Mistinguett. Parisian boulevardiers are betting on the chances of the 60-year-old singer with the first "million dollar legs" in theatrical history scoring another triumph.

AMELIA'S TRIP ENDED IN AUTO

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, thanks to an automobile, is in Los Angeles to receive the Distinguished Flying Cross and citation from Vice President Charles Curtis.

The aviatrix who flew solo across the Atlantic Ocean, was forced down yesterday at Taft, Cal., while winging her way from New York to receive the congressional honor tomorrow afternoon.

Explaining faulty gasoline pressure had terminated her air journey, Mrs. Putnam abandoned her plane and took an automobile for Los Angeles.

North Side Store Blaze Draws Crowd

A large crowd today watched firemen put out a small blaze in the Central Cleaning and Dying Company, 208 Federal street, North Side. The fire was in a hat cleaning machine and the damage was slight.

Awakes to Find His Garden Stolen

JOLIET, Ill., July 28.—(AP.)—Peter Buschnell's garden is missing. Peter awoke yesterday to find that someone during the night clipped 30 heads of cabbage and dug 60 holes of potatoes from his back yard.

Wendel Reunion Draws Throng, All After Cash

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Why don't they broadcast that Wendel convention from New York?

There are about two hundred Wendel delegates and proxies racing up and down the aisles of the Surrogate's court. And like all conventions, this one is after some one's else money.

They all claim to be related to John Gottlieb Wendel by postcard. Gottlieb was associated with John Jacob Astor and got rich while John Jacob was looking out of the window.

The last of the Fifth avenue Wendels is a dog so old he couldn't bury a bone in five feet of sawdust. He is enjoying the estate now but his doghouse is picketed by four hundred lawyers who claim that three barks mean "Yes."

The struggle is going to be the Abie's Irish Rose of will contests. The leading candidate has just inserted a champagne plank in his platform. If he wins he will be so rich he can afford to be a friend of the working man.

While the Wendel convention is not political it certainly resembles a national committee shaking the tree for campaign funds.

BANK PLOTTERS HUNTED

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Authors of Communistic propaganda found in a Pontiac (Mich.), hotel were sought today by the secret service and detectives everywhere as the directors of a nation-wide campaign against the confidence of bank depositors.

Chicago bankers, government officials and Michigan police unhesitatingly blamed the Communist party for a systematized attack on the integrity of financial institutions in many large cities, particularly the runs which threatened every bank in Chicago last month. It was said by C. L. Smith, prosecuting attorney at Pontiac, to have been backed by Soviet Russia.

William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for President, denied his organization had sponsored a whispering campaign against the First National Bank of Pontiac, or that a man known as George Rowland, in whose room seditious letters were found, was a member of the party.

WOMAN STORE HEAD HELD UP

"We ain't gonna hurt you, sister."

That was the assurance two stickup men gave Miss Florence Keenan, 35, the manager, when they found her alone in the P. H. Butler store at Grandview and Plymouth avenues, Mt. Washington, today.

But when Miss Keenan refused to obey their order to retire to a rear room they flourished a revolver dangerously and forced her back. Then they emptied the cash register of $30 and escaped.

Fight for 6 Cents Won by Consumer Over Light Firm

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The battle of the century for six cents has ended with Capt. John R. Locke getting the cents.

He complained that the New York Edison Company had overcharged him six cents, and that six cents is six cents. The company suggested that he pay or have his electricity cut off.

Locke wrote letters and so did the company. He said go ahead and cut off the current and watch me sue.

Now the Public Service Commission notifies Locke, a yacht broker, that the company has agreed to credit him with six cents and let bygones be bygones.

AUNT'S SLAYER SOUGHT ALIBI, SAYS GIRL

'Model Boy's' Fiancee Held as Witness in Fatal Stabbing

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 28.—(AP.)—An attractive young woman today charged that George Douglas Templeton, Jr., 20, self-described "model boy," begged her to shield him from the conquences of a knife attack which sent his aunt to her grave and his uncle to a hospital seriously wounded.

The woman, who said her name was Claire Burnette, although she was booked by police as Claire Chapman, 28, declared Templeton sought her aid as an alibi witness after he fatally stabbed his aunt, Mrs. Lillian Babcock, Manila society matron, and wounded his uncle, William Rider Babcock, wealthy Philippine exporter.

ENGAGED TO YOUTH

She also declared she was secretly engaged to the youth, a former University of California student. He had sought to have her accompany him to Los Altos, where the attack took place early Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Buckish, a sister of Mrs. Babcock, Miss Burnette further asserted.

She was arrested in Oakland, as a material witness, and brought here last night. The prisoner said she is a Vassar College graduate of three years ago, and her father, whose name she refused to give, is a New York banker.

DEFEND SON

The parents of the youth, Maj. George Douglas Templeton, retired Army officer of Berkeley, and his wife, insisted their son had always been a "good boy."

In a purported confession, the youth declared:

"My father had been cheated of a considerable sum of money by Mr. Babcock and I thought that with my killing him and his wife, insurance and property would go to my father."

The youth's father and Babcock were previously associated in the importing business in Manila. Babcock and his wife came to the United States to attend the Olympic games.

'MA' INSISTENT ON DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(Universal.)—When Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Hudson gets a divorce from Guy "What-a-Man" Hudson she wants one of the good, permanent California variety—one that stands at par everywhere.

And so, she said today, she firmly turned down the sugestion presented to her by her husband's attorneys that she should go to Las Vegas, Nev., and file her action there.

She was busy clearing out the last of "What-a-Man's" wardrobe, to be sent to him in answer to his plaintive plea:

"Please send my clothes."

She said:

"He called me up the other night to urge me to come to Nevada and forget about the divorce. Three dollars and twenty-five cents I had to pay to listen to that hooey. Collect — of course, he called collect.'

Parole Violator, Hungry, Gives Up

Hungry and broke, a man who said he was Lie Van Horne, 38, of Binghamton, N. Y., applied for lodging in Central Police Station and said he was a parole violator. Police asked New York authorities of Van Horne's status. He said he had been paroled on a forgery charge.

Jeanette McDonald Marriage Denied

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—(INS.)—A report that Jeanette MacDonald, who rose from obscurity as a West Philadelphia High School girl to stardom in the movies, was secretly married to Bob Ritchie, her manager, was flatly denied today by a member of the MacDonald household here.

Slashed in Battle Over Neighbor's Son

P. C. Tesson, 56, of 4920 Harrison street, was cut on the left arm last night in an argument with a Negro neighbor, whose son was one of several boys chased from the rear of Tesson's home because of annoyance, according to police. Tesson was taken to West Penn Hospital. The assailant was being sought.

LINDY FUGITIVE BELIEVED SLAIN

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Fingerprint classifications sent from St. Paul, Minn., failed to establish today whether a man known in St. Paul as Abe Loeb and killed there, was in fact Abie Wagner, New York gangster, long sought for questioning in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case.

Inspector Joseph J. Donovan, head of the Criminal Identification Bureau of the Police Department, said the classifications were insufficient to determine identity and he had requested St. Paul police to send a full copy of the slain man's fingerprints.

Mrs. Paul Wagner, Warner's mother, announced yesterday she had received a telegram from her daughter-in-law in St. Paul that Wagner had been killed there, where he had been living under the name of Loeb. Dispatches from St. Paul today, however, quoted the widow of the slain man as denying he was Wagner.

The mother was convinced, however, that it was her son who was killed and proceeded with funeral plans.

Italy Cuts Rail Fare For Honeymooners

ROME, July 28.—(AP.)—The Italian State Railways have announced an 80 per cent honeymooners' reduction in round trip tickets to Rome. The move was initiated by the government to foster interest in marriages, which have been declining of late.

Couples must present their wedding certificates when applying for tickets.

7 HURT IN CRASH ON SOUTH SIDE

Seven persons were injured when an automobile in which they were riding collided with another machine at Sarah and South Twenty-second street last night.

Mrs. Mary Miller, 36; Oscar Northrup, 60, and his wife, Leona, 58, all of 706 West North avenue, are in South Side Hospital, seriously injured. Mrs. Miller's husband, Robert, 34, driver of the car; his son, Woodrow, 13; Edward Hinderliter, 42, and Helen Huntsman, 17, all of the West North avenue address, were treated for cuts and bruises at the hospital.

The other automobile in the crash was said to have been driven by Joseph Weiss, 40, of 111 West Cherryhill street, Carrick.

John Husak, 15, of 1101 Bingham street, suffered scalp lacerations when a truck driven by his brother, Frank Husak, 21, collided with a United States mail truck at Carson and Smithfield streets last night, police reported.

FRANCE TO BAR NAUGHTY FILMS

PARIS, July 28.—(AP.)—Close inspection of motion picture films from Hollywood and elsewhere to protect French morals and French producers was ordered today in a decree signed by President Lebrun.

It will be published officially tomorrow, but the Ministry of Fine Arts has issued a summary which is being studied by American representatives for its effects from the American film industry.

The decree will be effective for one year as of July 1. It provides certain agencies of control which may be used against practices considered harmful to the French film industry or morals, but apparently there is no fixed license or quota scheme.

Policeman Accused Of Eating Bail—Eggs

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Policeman Frank Delnagro, of suburban Dixmoor, is accused of eating the bail he took from an alleged speeder. The bail consisted of a crate of eggs.

The accusation was made by Joseph H. Braun, attorney for the Chicago Motor Club, after he appeared in a Justice of the Peace court to defend a Chicago resident arrested in the suburb on a charge of speeding.

LISTENING FOR THE 'GHOST SINGER'

LILLIAN DUNLEVY, WITH EAR CUPPED . . WAITING FOR EERIE CROONER BARED AS CONVICT

This Joliet (Ill.) girl was only one of hundreds of citizens who might not have believed in ghosts, but who nevertheless kept vigil in the old cemetery of Illinois State Prison until William Chrysler, a trusty, confessed early today that he was the "phantom singer. On sentry duty in a quarry nearby, Chrysler said it was "kind of spooky" and he sang old hymns "to sort of cheer myself up" as he passed graves of executed murderers. So the "ghost" was laid. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Doomed Chow to Face Court in Life Appeal

BALTIMORE, July 28.—(AP.)—Ming Toy will face Judge Albert S. J. Owens Friday when an appeal in behalf of the chow dog from a death sentence for biting two persons is heard in Criminal Court.

The chow was sentenced to be executed several weeks ago by a police magistrate, but the execution was postponed so she might mother her puppies. She was charged with nipping two persons as they approached her litter which was only a few hours old.

When her duties as a mother were over, another extension was granted pending the appeal, scheduled for Friday. Charles Fagan, attorney for the dog's owner, said Ming Toy will be taken to the courtroom during the hearing.

Several protests against sustaining the death sentence have been filed with the court from societies and individuals including the Jacksonville (Fla.) Humane Society, Eduardo L. Desvernine, Cuban Consul to Baltimore, and a New York woman.

A Baltimore society has offered a home for the dog if the sentence is changed to life imprisonment.

Bathing Beauties Chase Umpire From Ball Game

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Bathing beauties were well in the fore as 2,500 spectators chased an umpire from the field and battled police at the Johnstown-Clarksburg Middle Atlantic League game last night.

When Umpire Gillium banished Barry, of Johnstown, for protesting a third strike with too much fire, the crowd descended on him. Shrill cries of the participants in the bathing beauty contest, staged as an added attraction to draw cash customers to the game, mingled with the deeper rumble from male fans.

Gillium sought refuge in a dressing room as players kept the crowd back with ball bats. A patrol wagon conveyed the umpire to his hotel.

Clarksburg won, 4 to 2.

PROPOSE WALL OR BOULEVARD RIVER FRONT

Two plans for the improvement of the river fronts are being developed by city engineers for presentation to Council as a part of the movement to reconstruct the wharves with the aid of funds from the United States Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

President of Council John S. Herron has declared he has been in favor of improving the wharves for some time and that government funds may be of considerable aid in getting the project started.

One of the city plans includes an arched wall and columns on which rests a parking platform. The other involves the construction of a boulevard parallel to the rivers and the building of a modified paved slope for parking.

Congressman Harry A. Estep has promised his help to city authorities in seeking government financing.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN TWO

Two boys from Western Pennsylvania were announced today as winners of the four annual memorial scholarships, granted by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

They are Marshall Dann, 966 Alcoma street, Sharon, and George W. Nagel, 843 Holland avenue, Wilkinsburg. Dann will enter Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., and Nagel will attend Carnegie Tech.

The scholarships are offered sons of Westinghouse employes as a memorial to its employes in service during the World War. Seventy-seven candidates took examinations.

JOBLESS PARTY PLANS SCORED

The program of the Jobless-Liberty part, which is to have Father James R. Cox as its presidential nominee, is inadequate to meet present conditions, because it is based on the assumption that capitalism "can be patched up," declared John W. Aiken, vice presidential candidate of the Socialist-Labor party, last night.

Aiken, addressing a meeting in West Park, said:

"I am opposed to a violent overthrow of the present government, but a more efficient form of government must be substituted, and it should be done before the absolute collapse of the present system."

The 35-year-old house painter charged the Republican and Democratic parties with beclouding the economic problems by stressing the prohibition question.

4 Girls, Men's Club Celebrate Famed Moist Date

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 28.—It will rain in Waynesburg, tomorrow.

You can get rain insurance at the regular rates if you believe it, and if you don't you can win a hat, if you are right.

It always rains in Waynesburg July 29. So old residents will tell you. It has, for years, with two exceptions, one being the drought of 1930, according to informal records kept here for many years.

The date is so famous that two organizations are in existence, with their only reason the fitting celebration of the day. First group is many years old, the "Twenty-Niners," a club for men only, which keep a 24-hour vigil for rain on July 29, every year, with only themselves and, it is said, gallons of beer for company.

A more delicate observation of the day is to be held this year, however, by four young ladies who will keep watch for 24 hours, beginning at midnight tonight, over a bridge table and with non-alcoholic carbonated drinks their only liquid nourishment.

The four girls are Miss Mildred Silveus, deputy county register and recorder for Greene County; Miss Wilma Anderson, society editor of a local newspaper; Miss Cora Marie Ross and Mrs. Marian Stoddinger.

Tradition has it that a forgotten farmer long ago noticed this eccentricity of Waynesburg's weather. He told one Ab Allison, druggist and court crier, and Allison kept a record for many years—a record still to be seen by the skeptic in a local drug store. Since Allison's death, his nephew, Byron B. Daily, also a druggist, has continued the record.

Negro Dies in Chair For Attack on Girl

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 28.—(AP.)—Charlie Grogan, Beaumont Negro, died in the electric chair here at 12:11 a. m. today for attacking a white girl. He had denied making the attack and went to the chair without a further statement.

MAN CLEARED IN BURGLARY

Stanley Brunski, 22, of 3 Wittman street, was absolved of any connection whatever with burglaries in Mt. Washington today when Magistrate John J. Sweeney discharged him in Mt. Washington Police Court. Yesterday a 9-year-old nephew had testified that Brunski gave him a dime to stand outside a house which police said they suspected Brunski of entering.

Brunski had a convincing explanation for certain articles found in his home, John P. Fay, of 2085 Grandview avenue, testified he gave these articles to Brunski.

Picnic for Children Exchange Club Plan

Children of the Lawrenceville district will be guests of the Pittsburgh Exchange Club at an outing August 6, in Cubelo clearing, North Park. Automobiles and trucks will leave the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, at 2 p. m. The Community Service Committee is assisting.

Sioux Name Curtis As Honorary Chief

CHEYENE, Wyo., July 28.—(AP.)—Vice President Charles Curtis, who has the blood of a Kaw chieftain in his veins, last night was made an honorary chief of the Ogallalo Sioux tribe.

The ceremony was performed by feathered tribesmen as a train, bearing the Vice President to Los Angeles, stopped here briefly.

Suspect Kills Self As U. S. Agents Wait

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—(AP.)—While the federal grand jury was considering charges of counterfeiting against him and two United States secret service agents waited outside his home, Herbert L. Walkup committed suicide by drinking poison yesterday.

Walkup was arrested here recently on charges of counterfeiting $13,000 in $10 gold certificates and later freed on bond.

Only One Civil War Veteran at Reunion

CLEVELAND, July 28.—(AP.)—Seth Knowles, 89, Warren, O., was the only one of the three survivors of the Ninth Ohio Battery, Cival War regiment, able to attend the sixty-second annual reunion of the unit here yesterday.

Leroy Simmons, Oak Park, Ill., started for Cleveland but infirmities forced him to abandon the trip. John Vandervort, 87, Anaheim, Cal., was unable to attend.

Fighting Log Jam, Four Die in Rapids

DEUX RIVIERES, Ontario, July 28.—(AP.)—Swept into the turbulent waters of the True Rapids, when their boat capsized, four men drowned and a fifth was missing today. Three others clung to the overturned boat and reached safety and another swam to shore.

The nine river drivers were trying to break a log jam. Their boat suddenly was drawn sideways into the backwash of the rapids and the men were thrown out.

Donahoe's are helping to bring Convention Business to Pittsburgh

The American Legion State Convention will be held in Pittsburgh August 18th, 19th and 20th.

More than 15,000 reservations from out-of-town have already been made; 40,000 visitors are expected to attend the Convention. There will be at least 200 uniformed organizations in the Big Parade on Saturday, August 20th—marching military bands and colorful, well-drilled Drum and Bugle Corps. It will take at least six (6) hours for this parade to pass a given point.

This Convention will cost the American Legion of Allegheny County many thousands of dollars in expense and, due to relief work during the past year, their funds are practically exhausted.

It is customary for a City or County and various Business Associations to make a liberal appropriation to help defray the expenses of any outstanding convention held in their territory, but due to economic conditions, the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny are unable to extend any financial aid to this American Legion Convention; and they have received only one small contribution from a Business Association.

This American Legion Convention was scheduled for Pittsburgh a year ago, before times got so extremely bad; it is well known by the American Legion membership throughout the entire State that the Pennsylvania State Convention is to be held in Pittsburgh in August, 1932, and the American Legion of Allegheny County feel that the Convention MUST be held and SHALL be held—they will get the money somehow—it would humiliate the City of Pittsburgh, the County of Allegheny and the American Legion of Allegheny County before the eyes of the entire State of Pennsylvania if the American Legion of Allegheny County had to say to the Legion membership in the entire State of Pennsylvania—"you can't hold your convention in Pittsburgh; we will have to back out of the arrangements made a year ago and upon which you have been depending because we Allegheny County legionnaires haven't got the money to hold the convention and can't get it."

The Allegheny County American Legion have firmly resolved never to say the foregoing; they are working hard and valorously to make the money necessary to avoid the stigma of a failure being placed upon Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, and Donahoe's are glad to help.

Donahoe's have arranged to help the American Legion of Allegheny County financially—Donahoe's will pay a good portion of the convention expense, based upon purchases made by the public at any and all Donahoe stores until August 20, 1932.

Help the American Legion of Allegheny County in their hard task---

Buy Your Foods at Donahoe's EAT at Donahoe's EVERY Day Until August 20th

RULE REVEALS SCHOOL TAX CUT PLAN

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, says Pennsylvania school taxes can be reduced if appropriate legislation is enacted covering six main points. He outlined his plan today at the Pennsylvania State College institute of urban problems.

Points to which he attached the "if" are:

1—Passage of the constitutional amendment proposed for graduated income tax. This would mean a direct relief on local real estate taxes for school purposes.

2—Provision for more equitable assessments, so as to give more uniform distribution of the burden of support.

SALARY REDUCTION

3—Reduction of minimum salaries of teachers to meet the reduced cost of living, but with flexible provision to make possible the omission of increments in times of depression. A 10 per cent reduction seems certain.

4—Change in distribution of state aid, so school districts will be reimbursed in proportion to ability to pay taxes. In periods of depression, reduction of state support would fall upon districts best able to bear it.

5—Provide more efficient units of school organization by eliminating overlapping activities and functions and by reorganization of school units to reduce overhead substantially, particularly in small, fourth-class districts, bringing about decentralization of administration, so as to develop greater degree of local initiative and interest.

BUDGET CONTROL

6—Greater authority given Department of Public Instruction to require school districts to maintain adequate system of accounting and budget control of school expenditures, and to intervene in the case of school districts where it appears boards of directors are abusing their powers of discretion in administration of school funds.

Edith M. Everett, of Philadelphia, director of the White-Williams Foundation, said:

"Budget-cutting must be done according to a carefully considered scale of values.

"Politicians or even tax experts are not equipped to decide what shall go."

WALTHERS VOTE $30,000 FUNDS

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—An executive board recommendation that the annual international Walther League budget be reduced from $40,000 to $25,000 was rejected yesterday by league convention delegates who voted a $30,000 budget with a statement that executive departments should be given free rein in sponsoring league affairs.

The convention also adopted a resolution to incorporate, but advised an investigation by the executive board before any action was taken. The league has 55,000 members in the United States and Canada and maintains the Wheat Ridge Sanitarium at Denver, Col., where charity work in excess of $60,000 yearly has been done.

Meeting on the anniversary of the day, July 27, 1914, which marked the beginning of the World War, the convention also adopted a resolution indorsing the "friendly contests of athletic abilities among the nations in the Olympiad as the splendid example of manifesting supremacy in particular fields without destruction."

Washington Coin To Be Released On Monday

The 25-cent piece commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, will be released, in limited quantities, in Pittsburgh Monday. After distribution of a small quantity, no more will be released until the supply of old Liberty quarters in the Fourth Federal Reserve district is low.

The new issue will gradually take the place of the old. They may be obtained, Monday, at banks.

LANDLORD TOLD TO GIVE WATER

Harry Zisskind, 1815 Flagler street, McKeesport, jailed for not keeping his premises in sanitary condition and failing to supply water to tenants, was released by Judge Frank P. Patterson in habeas corpus proceedings yesterday.

Zisskind said he did not furnish water because he could not pay for it, his tenants not having paid him rent for two years. Judge Patterson told the landlord he must comply with the law. Appeals are pending in suits against Zisskind, from fines imposed by a magistrate and in default of which payment he was committed to jail.

Zisskind declares he is being persecuted by city officials, saying several other suits had been entered against him.

LIGHTNING HITS N. Y. CHURCHES

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Lightning struck three church steeples during a sudden electrical storm that drove temperatures down from oppressive levels last night.

A marble cross was toppled from a spire of the Rockefeller-sponsored Riverside Church at One Hundred and Twenty-second street and Riverside drive. Pedestrians, huddled in doorways to escape the pelting rain, were not touched by the shattering fragments.

Another bolt sent a shower of bricks tumbling down from the steeple of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church on City Island. The Sales Methodist Episcopal Church, at One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, also was struck.

Damage was slight in each case.

A fourth bolt struck a flagpole in the grounds of the Catholic protectory, in the Bronx, snapping it in two.

FLORIDA WOMEN FIGHT PRISON TORTURE

International News Service.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 28.—Aroused by reports of prison camp brutalities over a period of six years, a group of Florida church, welfare and women's organizations were banding today to demand the Legislature outlaw road camps, sweatboxes and all forms of prison torture.

The organizations will be aided by David Sholtz, Democratic nominee for governor. Sholtz regarded as a governor-elect, twice has declared for abolition of prison road camps. So does the Democratic platform.

PUBLIC AROUSED

The death of young Arthur Maillefert, New Jersey prisoner, while chained in a sweatbox in a road camp near Jacksonville last month, aroused public opinion in Florida against the camps. When International News Service published a series of statements from other prisoners, revealing like tortures were committed over a period of six years, welfare workers and church leaders decided to carry their fight against the camps to the Legislature.

Gov. Doyle E. Carlton already has indicated he will reorganize the prison inspection service. With other state officials, he was much incensed by the failure of prison inspectors to report instances of prison cruelties, which later came to light.

CRUELTY REVEALED

The case of James Dennison, young Philadelphia prisoner, was an instance. After lying helpless in a prison cot for six months, he charged a guard with having shot him in the back as he lay on the ground. Other convicts corroborated his charges.

The Legislature may be asked to place lower limits on sentences. There has been widespread criticism of Florida judges who imposed heavy sentences on first offenders, particularly on boys. An example was the 45-year sentence imposed by a Jacksonville judge on 21-year-old Clyde Jones, convicted of highway robbery—his first offense.

A shakeup in prison camp captains appeared certain, as another development of the torture cases. Prisoners have complained bitterly against Capts. I. E. Steele and G. E. Dollar.

'3RD DEGREE' DEFENDED

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The "Police Defense Committee" was formed in Mineola, N. Y., yesterday to raise money by public subscription for the defense of the 13 Nassau County policemen accused in the third degree death of Hyman Stark, New York racketeer.

George W. Loft, former candy manufacturer, was chosen chairman. He issued a statement praising the record of Nassau County police and decrying the ruthlessness of the criminal element, saying:

"If you let down the bars and kiss these gangsters on each cheek and offer them pink tea, our women and children will not be safe. In the words of Big Chief Devery 'There is more law in the end of a nightstick than in all the couris of the land.'"

54 ADMIT GUILT IN RUM CASES

George "Limpy" Joseph, 46, of 1408 Webster avenue, appeared in Federal Court, supported by his cane, and was given a year in jail by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday. He was charged with violating the prohibition laws while on probation from a prior offense.

Jennie Frishman, of 84 Logan street, was given a 30-day sentence and $200 fine, while Harry Keyes, a Negro, taken in a recent raid on the Orange Blossom cafe, Fullerton street, formerly Derby Dan's, was given four months.

They were among 92 men and women whose cases came up. In record time, one was heard every two minutes.

Of the cases listed, 54 pleaded guilty, and all but a few were put on probation or fined. Nine pleaded not guilty, five split their pleas, three moved to suppress and three presented physicians' certificates to show they were ill. One forfeited bond.

SLOT MACHINES SEIZED IN RAIDS

Six slot machines and a small quantity of moonshine were confiscated and three men were arrested by county detectives in raids yesterday on three Lawrenceville confectioneries. The raids were ordered by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, to whom complaints had been made about the places.

The detectives reported seizing two machines in the confectionery of Henry Dlugokaski, at 186 Forty-third street, two in the store of Stanley Szwarc, at 156 Forty-first street, and two in a store owned by Anthony Golembiewski, at 110 Forty-third street.

The three were charged with maintaining gambling devices in informations filed before Alderman Thomas M. Geary. Szwarc also was charged with violating the Snyder act. Bail for each was fixed at $2,500.

Dancer Asks Divorce On Cruelty Charge

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Ruth Madona Antonelli, who is a dancer in the movies under the name of Fontaine La Rue, filed suit yesterday for divorce from Albert Antonelli, cosmetic merchant, to whom she was married five months ago.

She charged cruelty. Once, she said, he struck her unconscious with his fist.

Man Admits Slaying Detractor of U. S.

PERRY, Okla., July 28.—(AP.)—J. L. Martin, of Watonga, Okla., was in jail here today after allegedly admitting he slew Peter von Nearop when the latter "cussed our country and people because he couldn't get work."

Von Nearop's body was recovered from a water-filled oil pit where it had been hidden. Paul Cress, Noble County attorney, said he would file murder charges against Martin.

Indicted for Slaying On Gambling Barge

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—A federal grand jury indicted James L. O'Keefe yesterday for the recent killing on the gambling barge Rose Isle, of Charles Bozeman, following an alleged drinking bout. O'Keefe, formerly of St. Louis, and Bozeman, were employes on the barge, which was anchored off Long Beach.

HOSPITALS MAY ADOPT FLAT RATE PLAN

A plan to charge an average flat rate for patients in all Pittsburgh hospitals as part of a movement to put the institutions back on a normal paying basis is being discussed by hospital heads, it was revealed today.

The plan would be similar to the present flat rates for maternity cases and would make hospitalization more economical for patients, it was pointed out.

SEES SAVING

In discussing the proposed plan, M. H. Eichenlaub, superintendent of West Penn Hospital, said:

"Such a plan will be one of the accepted policies in the coming-back process of Pittsburgh hospitals. It would help us to get back to a normal basis and it would go a long way to provide economical and satisfactory hospitalization."

Flat rates for maternity cases already have been applied in many local institutions with considerable success, it is pointed out by sponsors of the new plan.

INCLUSIVE RATE

Under this plan, the rate would include costs for room and board, regular nursing service, operating room service, varying according to the nature of the operation, laboratory and X-ray service and formulary drugs.

The rate for any particular treatment would be based on the average cost of the treatment, as provided by the plan.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

Many Men Don't Understand Needs of a Woman

Why does the big boy yell at "Merely Mary Ann" if she spends 59 cents for a pair of sox, or says she needs a new dress?

And what'll she do about it?

"I've had just three pairs of cheap stockings in seven months, and one cheap print dress in a year, yet he says I spend his money foolishly!" she wails. And—

"Honestly, I was so hurt that I had hysterics when he said that."

And did that affect him? Did he beg her pardon, and say he was sorry? Listen!

"Dear Sally—

"I am writing you because you are such an understanding person, and I have absolutely no one to confide in.

"I am 23, and I have been married one year. My husband and I get along all right, except for one thing. He doesn't see why I should spend even so much as five cents on myself.

HUBBY OBJECTS

"I do all our washing, baking, cooking and cleaning, and try in every way to economize, yet when I simply have to have a pair of 59-cent stockings, there is a big squawk. In seven months I have had just three pairs, and he thinks it is awful. I have had one cheap print dress in a year.

"He handles all the money, and just gives me what he feels like giving. For instance, at the beginning of the week he gave me $5. Out of that I had to buy him a carton of cigarets, pay a bill of $1.50, and buy groceries, and meat and stuff for his luncheon. Then at the end of the week I asked him for a few cents more, and he raved 'What in —— do you do with my money?' He also said 'Hereafter I want an itemized statement of what you buy during each day.'

"I sat right down and put down everything I had bought during the week, and it added up exactly right. I gave it to him to see for himself, and he refused to even look at it.

GETS CAST-OFF CLOTHES

"I asked him 'Do you really think I spend your money foolishly?' He answered 'Yes.'

"Sally, I got so nervous that I finally had hysterics, and all he said was 'Oh, shut up! You brought it on yourself!'

"He is so self-satisfied, whereas I am always changing myself to suit him. I always have to take the first step to make up.

"When I told him last week that I needed a new dress, he said 'Well, get out and get yourself a job, if you want one.' I have been looking, but you know how hard they are to find.

"My relatives have been giving me some of their cast-off clothes, and he says 'What more do you want?' But you know no one is giving away anything that is decent looking. And gee! When you're only 23, and all the other girls dress nicely, it sure hurts you.

"I have two married friends. One thinks of herself first, and always dresses classy, and do you know, her husband just worships her! The other has a child, and does without things, as I am doing, and gets no credit from her husband.

"Please help he. I am 'up a tree' and don't know what to do. I love my husband, but at times I think I will go crazy. What on earth makes him like that? and do you think I spend foolishly?

"MERELY MARY ANN."

Do I think you spend foolishly? Youngster, if you can do all you say you did on five dollars, I think you are a genius, and your husband should consider himself lucky!

DEMAND MONEY

Why doesn't he? Why does he yell when you need a new dress or a pair of sox? Because, like many men, he doesn't understand a woman's needs. He thinks a roof over your head and food should be enough.

Of course, that is not true. Every woman needs, for her own self-respect, to have decent clothes, and a little money to spend on herself.

But tantrums of self-pity won't convince him of that, honey. They will only make him more sure that you are unbalanced, and unfit to handle money sensibly.

So talk to him as a man would talk to him—calmly, frankly, firmly. State that you, as well as he, contribute your part to your marriage; that you actually earn that money that you are now requesting.

Do not beg. Do not rage. Quietly demand that money as your right, and tell him that you'll walk out on him if you don't get it.

Will that bring him to his senses? If he has sense, it will. And if he hasn't any sense, it's time you knew it, lady.

To Be Known as Good Family Man Is One's Best Credential, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Marriage is an important factor in a man's life. To be known as a good family man is the very best credential a man can have to inspire confidence and trust in the minds of his fellowmen.

It does not matter so much that his wife be clever, or fashionable, or witty, or ambitious. But it is essential that she be a good wife, a good home-maker and a good mother.

Some self-effacing wives who have remained far in the background have helped their husbands just as much as other wives who march shoulder to shoulder with their husbands to the goal of his success.

The responsibility of a home and family and his devotion to that trust mark a man as worthy.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

What to Do With a Bunion

"Hallux valgus" is a medical term used to describe a condition in which the big toe is turned outward. The inner portion of the joint of the toe rubs against the next toe, causing marked irritation, and pain is produced by the pressure.

Dr. Copeland

The joints of the body are surrounded by small sacs containing a liquid called the "synovial fluid," that lubricates the joints. Each sac is called by the doctor a "bursa." Long-continued pressure or other irritation of a bursa will lead to inflammation, and this ailment is called "bursitis." It may result in a deformity of the joint, causing a condition commonly known as "bunion."

There are many causes of bunion, otherwise known as hallux valgus. Disabilities such as arthritis, gout and rheumatism may bring it about, directly or indirectly, while in many cases it appears to be inherited. It is frequently caused, too, by a blow or injury, such as a kick, or by some heavy object falling on the foot. Tight or improperly fitted shoes also are a common cause of bunion.

In its early stages hallux valgus can be easily corrected. Massage, proper shoes, exercise and foot baths are beneficial, but a cure can be accomplished only if the toe can move easily and is not complicated by other troubles. In advanced cases, operation is necessary if there is to be complete cure. In the complicated type of bunion, the part gradually enlarges and it is impossible to move the toe.

I am frequently asked whether "bunion plasters" have any value. In the treatment of bunion the irritation must be removed, and a bunion plaster, which is a thick ring of gauze or cotton placed around the sore spot, gives marked relief by removing the pressure. But, although the bunion plaster will help reduce the pain, it will hardly serve to cure the condition. Sometimes relief from discomfort can be obtained by cutting a hole in the shoe. The hole should be larger than the bunion and its edges should be smooth.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of wearing proper footgear. Bunions, bursitis, corns and other disabling deformities of the feet can be traced to wearing badly-fitted shoes.

A shoe should be of sufficient length, also wide enough to permit ample movement of the toes. The shoe should not be pointed, and its inner border should be firm and support the arch. The heel should be broad and not higher than from one to one and a quarter inches.

It is unwise to wear the same pair of shoes constantly, for increased comfort comes from frequent changes. It is not extravagant to have more than one pair of shoes. Indeed it is economical, because your shoes will wear longer and the health of your feet will be better.

Hints for the Household

When an oven is not available plates can be heated by placing over a saucepan of hot or boiling water, changing their position now and again.

To prevent the whites of eggs from falling before being used add a pinch of cream of tartar when they are half beaten, and then continue beating.

To remove medicine stains from linen, make a paste of fuller's earth and ammonia and apply to stains. Leave till dry, then wash the stained parts in cold water.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

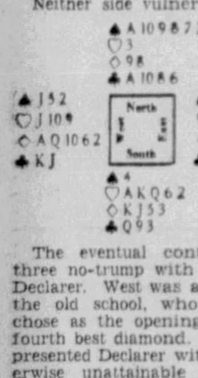
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Choosing the Right Suit

The success of many contracts depends upon the plan of play made by the Declarer—if it is a no-trump declaration, the choice of a suit to develop, or if it is a suit declaration, whether or not Dummy's trumps should be used for ruffing losers or the trumps immediately drawn. No hard and fast rule can be laid down governing the making of plans. Plans may vary with the bidding or the opening lead, and in all cases, of course, are subject to the requirements of being such that easy communication may be maintained between the Declarer and Dummy hand. It is useless, of course, to have winning cards in a suit in either the closed hand or Dummy and have to depend upon the charity of your opponents to permit you to make them. That is the reason that cards of entry and exit play such an important factor in the game of bridge.

An interesting hand, illustrating as it does the choice of the suit to develop and the timing of trick-taking, is given below:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The eventual contract was three no-trump with South as Declarer. West was a player of the old school, who unwisely chose as the opening lead his fourth best diamond. The lead presented Declarer with an otherwise unattainable trick, as well as a time unit, which he might use in the development of the cards.

In planning the play, the Declarer could see 3 heart tricks, the diamond already made, 1 spade trick and 2 clubs. It is true the length in spades might suggest the development of additional tricks in that suit, but, granting the most favorable distribution, 2 tricks must be lost, and meanwhile the element of time was running against the Declarer. Development of the spades had therefore to be abandoned. Nor would it have been good policy to attempt to develop an extra trick in hearts. This would still have left the Declarer one short of his contract to take 9 tricks, as he must inevitably lose a trick in the heart suit to his opponents, and this was a trick they could never cash except by his beneficence. There remained, therefore, as a possible source of extra tricks, the club suit, which, if developed, must yield at least 2 tricks to North and South. With East and West seeking to develop diamonds, the Declarer must cash an additional diamond, so on this basis he planned the play of his cards.

It was preferable, with this club holding, to lead from the closed hand toward the Dummy, and the card chosen in that case would be the Queen, which would eliminate the guess in the play of a suit with this honor holding. However, the lead was in the Dummy, and the Declarer could not sacrifice the lone heart to place the lead in his own hand. He, therefore, led to Trick 2 the club 6, and from his own hand played the Queen. West winning with the King. West, now seeking to remedy his earlier error, shifted to the spade suit, and East won this trick with the Queen. This probably marked the King in his hand. East returned the remaining diamond, which West won with the Ten and returned a spade, the Declarer again ducking. Inasmuch as West had bid diamonds, and East had played first the 4 and then the 7, South felt sure that East could not return that suit. East chose to return a heart, leading to weakness in Dummy, but the Declarer won with the Queen, and cashed the remaining tricks.

Had he wasted the valuable factor of time and attempted to develop the spade or heart suit, he must have been defeated, as the development of the club suit would have then come too late in the play to redeem the error in planning. West's lead of the diamond was also extremely bad, and had he chosen either a heart or spade for an opening, the contract must have been defeated.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Please give the correct opening bid by second hand on the following holdings:

♠ A Q 10 6 ♡ J 10 ◇ A K J 6 4 ♣ A 4

Answer: One diamond. When two biddable suits are distributed 5-4 or 6-4, the longer suit should be bid first irrespective of whether it is a minor or a major or whether the longer suit is weaker in honors. The hand would not warrant an opening two-bid, as there are but 4½ honor-tricks, and the hand contains too many possible losers.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Home treatment for the removal of moles is a beautifying attempt that should be discouraged. The work should be done by a specialist who understands moles and their strange habits.

The blonde dolly with a delicate thin skin of tea-rose coloring appears to best advantage when her velvety complexion is treated with a matching powder of light consistency. A heavy calcimine does not reveal the fine texture of the epidermis. Brunettes generally have substantial tegument on which a fairly heavy powder can be placed without giving the effect of too generous a consignment.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Mourning Attire.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My mother just passed away and I am wondering if it is appropriate for a daughter to wear a black band on her coat sleeve in memory of her? And what sleeve should it be worn on?

2. Or what other form of mourning could I adopt?

3. How long is it proper to be in mourning?

WONDERING.

1. Don't wear a black band on your coat. It isn't good form, and it isn't necessary or appropriate.

2. The form of mourning wear, or whether or not we wear it at all, depends entirely, nowadays, on our own choice. You may wear black, if you wish, all-black, or you may better relieve this with touches of black and white. Black and white prints are so fashionable this year, and it is so easy to get a simple, small-figured one, that this would be appropriate and not so heavy hearted as all-black. And you may wear all-white, in your home and in the country, for, as you know, all-white is as "deep" mourning as is all-black.

Or you may, perfectly correctly, wear your usual clothes, leaning, of course, to dark colors.

9. It is proper now to wear mourning for as long or as short a time as we wish. You might, if you wish, wear the black and white combinations for, say, three or four months, and then wear dark colors, or your customary clothes.

Both of them KEEP FIT

1932. OLYMPIC YEAR. The strongest, healthiest, and ablest men of many countries are meeting in California. They are in the peak of condition . . . abounding with stored-up energy.

At home, millions of others are working, golfing, swimming. They keep fit. Keep active. Keep well by eating wisely and heartily.

Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes are food for active bodies. Made of whole wheat—nature's almost perfect food. Easy to digest. Full of nourishment. Enough bran to be mildly laxative.

And they're packed with the famous flavor of Pep. Crisp. Cooling. Delicious with milk or cream. Popular with the whole family for breakfast, lunch or supper. A delightful bedtime bite. Mothers like PEP because it is easy to serve . . . more sensible than hot, heavy foods in summer.

Get these better bran flakes from your grocer. Enjoy them often! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

TAXICAB MEN GET AIR RIDES

More than 400 taxicab drivers, employes of the Parmalee System, were to be given airplane rides at Bettis Field today in an endeavor to create "air-mindedness" among the drivers.

The air rides are in anticipation of a plan for a more extended airport taxicab service to be inaugurated by the Parmalee System.

A Ford tri-motored plane belonging to the Air Service of Pittsburgh, Inc., was to be used for the flights.

Pitcairn Freight Handlers in Lead

For six successive months Pittsburgh transfer station employes at Pitcairn, have led the larger stations of the Central Region of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the efficient handling of less than carload freight, according to figures compiled by officials.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third-class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

To Clark

Dear Mr. Gable: You have made a hit
With what they wrongly call the weaker sex;
When you appear I'm willing to admit—
They're wrecks.

Your came man tactics never fail to draw
The female of the species, it is true;
The picture may be absolutely raw,
It's true.

I give you credit for the way you toil,
I wouldn't underestimate your fame;
Nor would I, if I had the power, spoil
Your game.

But just one thing is driving me to tears—
Your ears.

—Van H. Eshelman.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Recommended to the Book of Similes: Bert Nevins: Certain as the sunset at the end of a travel movie . . . D. Alber: Busier than Gandhi slapping at flies.

Oop!

We thought the actor-heckler had passed in New York. But one of them popped up again at a girlesk show last night. A comic was chirping:

"A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!"

The heckler heckled:

"Will a jackass do?"

"Yeh!" snapped the actor; "come on up!"

Incidentally

Up in Montreal, where Miss Guinan and her cuties are delighting the natives, the wags have their moments.

The famed hostess was delivering her usual routine when introducing her undraped dolls to the patrons.

"Now give this lit-tul gir-rul a great big hand," said Texas; "she once won a beauty contest and got a blue ribbon!"

"Well," flipped a clown, "why don't she wear it?"

Add Sillies

I. Hoffman relays this one: A contrib from "Genius" Sarazen, who with several enthusiasts was enjoying a round of golf. Darkness was falling, and one of the players had to send his caddy ahead to shout the direction of the green.

Out of the blackness in front came a voice. "Do you see the moon?"

"Yes, why?" cried the golfer.

"Well," yelled the caddy, that's the direction—but not so far!"

Sid Parrygraph

One good feature of those animal roars on the various theater marquees is that they drown out the groans of the idle actors.

Imagine

Jim Conway of Chicago says that the recent quip about the store owner who was dozing on a box behind the counter when a customer came in, and said: "What's-a-matter, you couldn't come in when I'm standing?" has its sequel. It's the one about the dry goods storekeeper, who disliked having his Saturday night pinochle game interrupted.

So when the bell over the door would tingle to inform him that a customer had arrived, he would shish his friends and chirp:

"Be quiet; maybe he'll go away."

Heheheh

Paul Whiteman says it really happened to him recently when he and his crew played a benefit at a home for the feebleminded. During the intermission Paul took a stroll about the grounds. A lunatic came up and started gabbing.

"By the way," asked the dippy one, "what's your name?"

"Paul Whiteman," said Paul.

"Oh, yeah?" was the snapper, "they'll soon beat that out of you here."

Form of Criticism

Paul Sweinhart, the theatrical editor, says he overheard this gab between two veteran vaudevillians in front of the Palace, where the policy has been switched frequently to "bring back business."

"No wonder the Palace has had trouble," said the first, "one week they play radio stars, another week Floyd Gibbons, who is a newspaperman, and they've even tried columnists."

"What's the point?" asked the listener.

"I was just wondering," was the retort, "what would happen if the Palace tried actors!"

COMING -:- Gossip About Present and Future of the Theater -:- SCREEN

Lusitania to Be Subject Of Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.

With Paramount cameras set to make exclusive pictures of the salvaging of the Lusitania, Sam Katz yesterday began picking players for the film that will commemorate this feat of maritime engineering.

He names Richard Bennett, Frances Dee and Gene Raymond for important parts in the story that will be made under the title of "The Lusitania Secret."

While the starting date of the picture depends upon the salvage operations, Cyril Hume and Martin Flavin have been instructed to get the screen play into shape for early production. They will base it upon an original story by James Bernard Fagan, who wrote "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." and a number of other hits.

Frances Dee

Frances Dee and Gene Raymond, you'll note, are being developed as a team by Paramount.

BOULEVARD TALK

Mary Pickford is very much sold on the Broadway hit, "Another Language," but she is in a hurry for a story and producers won't release this one to the films for a year and a half. Over long distance, she intimated she may consider buying it anyway . . . The production of "The Road Back" has been postponed a month to allow James Whale a chance to visit England. He hasn't been back for three years. R. C. Sherriff will return with him . . . They will see one of the real showplaces of Hollywood.

It was that embarrassing, the other evening, when Lowell Sherman and Geneva Mitchell happened in at the Frolics and were seated next to Helene Costello (Lowell's ex), John Barrymore Colt and Mary Duncan. The tactful management made a quick switch of tables.

Lowell Sherman

Erich Von Stroheim (are you surprised?) is one of the most regular patrons of the night-life places here. In his party at the Frolics the other midnight was a little blonde who smoked a black Havana cigar . . . George Raft is Mary Duncan's latest. Or vice versa . . . And June Knight dropped in with Hal Grayson. By the way, he'll be taking his band to the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas about August 15 . . . Ena Gregory and Al Rogell were another film couple dancing under the stars . . . And that petite brunette with Ernest Laemmle was Lupita Tovar.

Those romantic days spent filming "The Bird of Paradise" were too much for Josephine Remos and Arnold Gray. They were married here July 15. She is stand-in for Dolores Del Rio and he played a part in the picture.

Melvyn Douglas is turning down film offers because he and his wife, Helen Gahagan, want to return to Broadway and appear in a repertoire of plays next season. They played together in Belasco's "Tonight or Never."

DOUG ENTHUSED

Douglas Fairbanks returned from New Mexico without that bar he went down to buy. As a matter of fact, his idea was to get an authentic background for his Remington and Russell paintings, and he has his eye on another landmark that will do as well. It is McSween's store in Lincoln County. Here was staged part of the battle in which Billy the Kid shot Sheriff Brady and made another of his famous escapes from the law.

Doug is full of enthusiasm for Lincoln County, Tombstone and other haunts of the outlaws of the Southwest. He wants to start a movements to preserve these relics of the colorful past.

"Americans contribute greatly to the support of memorials in England," he said. "They should not overlook their own land. If something isn't done, all these famous landmarks will go to looters like myself, and I wouldn't think of buying them if they were not being allowed to go to ruin."

The star plans to bring Ysenio Salazar or George Coe (survivors of the Billy the Kid era) to Hollywood and introduce the old West to Hollywood.

Jane Austen Goes on Stage Like Mrs. Browning, Shakespeare Too

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Although Pittsburgh is primarily interested in the Theater Guild, which will open its road season here in October with "The Pure in Heart," to be followed later by the play around Shakespeare, "This Side Idolatry," and Emil Ludwig's "Versailles," there is good news in the preliminary trumpet-blasts from Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater.

Besides the revival of Molnar's "Liliom," in which Joseph Schildkraut and Eva Le Gallienne will play their original roles, there will be a new play called "Dear Jane." The heroine is Jane Austen, although the advance press notice say Jane "Austin," probably in compliment to that town in Texas.

Mr. Seibel

Eleanor Holmes Hinckley is the author of this Austen drama, which was surely inspired by Elizabeth Barrett Browning, of Wimpole street. But it isn't easy to find much romance or drama in Jane's sedate existence, unless we lug in Sir Walter Scott through the kitchen door.

"Alice in Wonderland" is another thing promised, with Eva LeGallienne as the White Chess Queen in a dramatization she has made herself.

CAKES WITHOUT ALE

Needy actors have received 53,741 free meals from the Actors' Dinner Club in New York during the past 33 weeks. The Dinner Club is shown to be 65 per cent charity by these figures; the other 5 per cent paid for their meals. This is the most unostentatious charity of our day. Nobody knows who's eating free and who's paying for it. Actors always were among the freest and easiest of generous spenders.

But better times are coming. At this moment about 40 new productions have already been announced for the coming season.

Two of the new productions will be put out by Arthur L. Beckhard, the new producer who made a big hit with "Another Language." Of these two, "Street Fiddler" will be watched with interest by Pittsburghers because the director will be Theodore Viehman, a Pittsburgher.

Another Pittsburgher, Mrs. Newton Chapin of Sewickley, who, as Anne Morrison, wrote "Pigs," will also have a new comedy on Broadway in October or November.

BUSY BOOKING SEATS

Undismayed by the thermometer, the two charming ladies who represent the American Theater Society in Pittsburgh are busy booking seats for the coming season. In the upper regions of the Nixon Building they have their lair, and as the enterprise combines the Theater Guild and Professional Players' subscription lists, there will be some full houses during the next season.

"Cynara," "Another Language" and "The Good Earth" are among the plays in prospect.

Walter Hampden has also decided on November 9 as the date when he will bring "Cyrano de Bergerac" here for a week.

Altogether the prospects are good for a lively season though Flo Ziegfeld will perpetrate no more "Follies" here. By the way, "Hot-Cha" was only $19,000 short of an even break and "Show Boat" will make that up in a few weeks.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Camille," with Jane Cowl as guest star of a Cleveland stock, "wowed" the audience and set the critics delving into the dictionary for superlatives. The old play, long relegated to the limitations of the funny things that rep. companies can do to a semi-classic of olden days, has been the talk of the town in the Forest City.

* * *

When Agnes Ayers of the films goes into Danbury, Conn., August 6, at the head of a musical revue called "Merry-Go-Round," the town will get a chance to see its first road show in four years . . . "Show Boat," revived by Florenz Ziegfeld in New York, will take to the road after the run there is completed, under the direction of A. C. Blumenthal, long a personal friend of the late producer of America's greatest spectacles . . . Teddy Joyce, who was the most popular local M. C., is on the Pacific Coast at the head of a new unit stage show . . . "Hypnotized," Mack Sennett feature-length comedy that will star Moran and Mack, will have a cast including Wallace Ford and Maria Alba in the romantic leads, Ernest Torrence, Charles Murray and Marjorie Beebe . . . A special Chicago company is being recruited for "Of Thee I Sing," musical satire that survives as a hit in New York after more than 250 performances . . . "Page Pygmalion," comedy by Carl Henkle, to be presented August 3, will be the first Broadway show of the new season . . . The Schwab and DeSylva musical comedy "Humpty-Dumpty," will have J. C. Nugent of the famed Nugent family of the stage, as a featured number of its cast.

WARNER

BITS OF LIFE

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Goodby to Another Pal

BY A chilling coincidence it was just a year ago that I stood in the rear of the Ziegfeld Theater and cried like a baby. Word had reached me that Helen Walsh, Ziegfeld beauty and the grandest of girls, was dead as a result of the yacht explosion in which my wife and I were also involved.

I felt as thought the world had toppled upon me. It was just before curtain time, and a capacity audience was filing in to see what was destined to be the last Follies that Florenz Ziegfeld would ever produce. Ziegfeld guided me to the little office that we used at times.

"Snap out of it, Mark," he said. "She was a wonderful girl, but it was her time to go. We've all got to go the same route, and tears don't help any."

His words sank in. I nodded. I realized I was being foolish. I swallowed hard and I straightened up. And doggone his funny, old soul—Ziegfeld was crying, too...

For me to write an obituary about Florenz Ziegfeld is a terrifying experience. As a friend for several years, as an intimate pal for the last two and as the co-author of both the "Follies" and "Hot-Cha," it is difficult for me to realize that that familiar voice is stilled and that those shrewd eyes are closed forever.

It seems to me that whenever a great figure goes into the beyond similar words are always applied. To those of us who knew him well, Florenz Ziegfeld rates a far greater tribute. I only wish that I had the ability to write it.

The depression killed the master showman. The doctors can blame it on his heart or whatever they choose, but they cannot tell me what I already know. For more than a year now money worries have troubled him greatly. And bit by bit, as the months rolled on, those worries became greater and greater.

Stories of Ziegfeld's extravagances have not been exaggerated. He lived to love and he loved to live. He thought less of the dollar than any man in American history.

One of the best illustrations of the man's mode of living is provided in the famous story of his wire to Ed Wynn, the highly successful comedian who was starred by Ziegfeld on several occasions. It seems that Flo, after making huge fortunes with "Show Boat" and "Rio Rita" several years ago, found himself on the coast and actually in need of ready cash.

It seemed inconceivable that such a thing could happen, yet there it was. He owed one butcher $4,000 and varying sums to other tradesmen. So, one morning in the East, Ed Wynn received a wire from Ziegfeld.

It was a touching wire. It said that he and Ed had been pals for many years. It said that the great glorifier was in temporary difficulties and that he needed $10,000 very badly.

Ed Wynn sent on the $10,000. And do you know what the man did with it? He hired a private railroad car to take him back East!" . . .

There may be some of you who will say it was foolish for a man to have lived like that. Well, foolish for you or me perhaps, but not for Flo Ziegfeld. That was his life; he had never been any different.

When I said the depression killed the man, I meant just that. Suddenly, almost overnight, it dawned upon him that the present was not the past. Money became far tighter than it had ever been before. His moneyed friends could no longer afford the great thrill of investing in a Ziegfeld production. The banks would not listen to his plea that his next show would be his greatest. Creditors were hounding him.

But, until the very end, he held fast to his fascinating pride. There were those who, realizing the magic drawing power of his name, offered him thousands of dollars weekly for the use of it on small productions. But bad as things were, he would not consent.

One late afternoon, just before he left his theater for the last time, we sat in the shadows of his office. I didn't know then that death was lurking in those shadows—and I urged him to accept one of these propositions for the use of his name.

"Nothing doing," he replied shortly. "I want none of that. I'll die first before I'll consent to such a thing."

And he did. . . .

I could write so much. So very, very much. I wanted to tell you of his devotion to Billie Burke and of his great love for his daughter, Patricia, whom he revered above all things on this earth.

I wanted to tell you of the thousands of stage people he has helped toward success. I wanted to tell you that he could never fire a chorus girl and that, if the company manager did so in order to cut expenses, he would often pay the kids out of his own pocket. I wanted to tell you—

But what's the use of going on like this? I want something, too. I want to sit in the Ziegfeld Theater just once more and hear that high voice with the funny, nasal quality. I want to hear it say:

"Hey, Goldie, where are those songwriters? . . . Are they trying to ruin me? . . . Tell Urban I don't want so much blue on that scene . . . Where's Hellinger? . . . Is he trying to ruin me with those bum jokes? . . . Where's that costumer? . . . Is he trying to ruin me? . . . Call up California and get Patricia on the wire." . . .

You were a grand character, Flo. So long. And God love you.

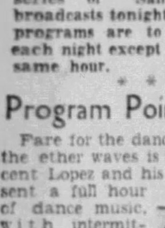
Pittsburgh Stars Featured In Varied Programs On Air Tonight

Nearly a dozen varied programs by outstanding Pittsburgh artists are scheduled on the air tonight.

On WCAE at 6:55, the WCAE Dance Band, under the direction of James G. Borrelli, presents a program of war melodies of 1917-18, with Glenn B. James, Chef de Gare, Voiture No. 5, the Forty-and-Eight, of Pittsburgh, as guest speaker. On the same station at 5 o'clock, Sylvia Stone, popular "Lullaby Lady," previously heard on WINS, is starred in a special program.

A salute to Jamaica, the modern Garden of Eden, by the KDKA concert ensemble, directed by Zoel Parenteau, with Frederick G. Rodgers as narrator and baritone soloist, is broadcast at 7:45. Alexander Roy, tenor finalist in Paul Whiteman's Pittsburgh auditions, is featured with the ensemble in the "Silhouettes" program broadcast over an NBC network from KDKA at 5.



Mr. James

Other Western Pennsylvania artists heard on the same station tonight are the So-and-So Trio, Whiteman audition winners, at 6:30; Samuel Di Primio, Greensburg tenor, at 8, and Mlle. Diane Laval, French songster, at 11:15 p. m.

On WJAS at 6:30, the Southern Harmony Girls are heard in a quarter-hour of rhythmic selections. Frederic Lotz presents a recital of compositions for organ on WWSW tonight at 7 o'clock.

Following a survey of Allegheny County which revealed 150,000 sandlot fans within its limits, KQV inaugurates a new series of "Sandlot Gossip" broadcasts tonight at 10:45. The programs are to be presented each night except Sunday at the same hour.

Program Pointers

Fare for the dancers tonight via the ether waves is plentiful. Vincent Lopez and his orchestra present a full hour of dance music, with intermittent chats by that breezy Broadway columnist, Walter Winchell, on WCAE at 10, followed immediately by another hour of Paul Whiteman's rhythm at 11. Tom Gerun, playing from the Hotel New Yorker, is heard on the same station at 12:05, and Dick Gasperre, leading his St. Regis Hotel Orchestra, is scheduled from 12:30 to 1. The Carol Loftner Band plays from 1:30 to 2 a. m.

Mr. Gerun

Georgie Price revives a favorite ballad of years ago, "The Baby's Prayer at Twilight," and impersonates Joseph Cawthorne, comedian, best remembered for his starring appearances with Donald Brian and Julia Sanderson, on WJAS at 7:45.

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson raise more of their ultra-nut discussions during their skits with Graham McNamee and Rudy Vallee on WCAE at 8.

Yodeling his own words and music for the first time on the air, Ray Perkins offers another of his own songs, "Michael McKinney," on WCAE at 7:30.

"Under Suspicion," a romance, is dramatized on WJAS tonight at 9:30.

Episodes in the life of Ambrose Pare, who in the early part of the Sixteenth Century proved that it was not necessary to pour boiling oil into wounds to cauterize them, are told in dramatized form during the Danger Fighters' program on KDKA at 9.

Compositions by Wagner, Grieg, Saint-Saens, Massenet and Tchaikovsky are included on the program of the Coffee Concert Orchestra directed by Graham Harris on WCAE tonight at 9:30 o'clock.

Fan Fare

Reports have it, although that cigaret company denied it, that Douglas Fairbanks insists he was offered real money to talk about the Olympics before a microphone . . . A new motion picture about radio, starring Bebe Daniels, is planned . . . A new Manhattan show, "The Nine O'Clock Revue," will have Ray Perkins as its featured entertainer . . . Jack Denny is going to appear in a series of movie shorts . . . Ben Bernie has turned composer with a tune called "Chicagoana" . . . and George Gershwin is said to be writing a serious opera.

Miss Daniels

When Willem Van Hoogstraten visited the Boswell Sisters to hear them sing recently, he said he'd call "about noon." The girls were alone and feared they wouldn't wake in time to "look their best," so they solved the problem by sitting up all night.

There's a story about George M. Cohan. Not long ago when his daughter, Georgette, appeared in a radio program, he was asked several times to introduce her, but was forced to refuse every time because he was due on the stage at the hour of the broadcast. In his dressing room he had a receiving set, and tuned in to hear Georgette. Imagine his surprise when the announcer introduced George M. Cohan, and then a voice, much like his own, introduced his daughter. Being a good scout, he didn't say anything about a mimic.

The new pianist with Buddy Rogers is none other than the composer of "Body and Soul" and other hits, Johnny Green.

Mildred Bailey is collecting old Southern recipes and may put them between the covers of a book.

The Men About Town have turned down all of the bassos who walked into their New York offices for tryouts for the job they have open . . . because they're waiting for those recordings from singers throughout the country.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

Uncle Bob and Betty provide 15 minutes of high hilarity when they read the Sun-Telegraph comics on WCAE tonight at 6.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. daily with the latest news flashes from the editorial rooms.

A talk full of pointers for Pittsburgh shoppers is heard on WCAE tomorrow morning at 9, when Peggy comes to the microphone with her bargain tips.

Musical Composers Won't Boycott Radio

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—A boycott of broadcasting is the farthest thing from the mind of the musical world, says the man who has led the demand of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers for an increase in the copyright fees paid by radio station.

E. C. Mills, general manager of the society, so declared in discussing the apparent deadlock of the negotiations which committees representing the society and the National Association of Broadcasters have been conducting.

BRITAIN FIGHTS SOVIET GOODS

By FREDERICK EDWARDS
International News Service.

OTTAWA, July 28.—Great Britain will not place an embargo on goods produced in Soviet Russia. The British government will entertain a preferential tariff for Canadian wheat and at the same time will consider methods to curtail the dumping of Soviet Russia's products in British markets.

These essential facts came out of the imperial economic conference today, following a series of informal conversations between the leading British and Canadian delegates.

It is understood here that the general plan which commits Great Britain to a consideration of a wheat preference in Canada's favor, in return for a consideration of Canadian abandonment of the Russian embargo, is accepted by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett for Canada.

Wine and Beer Seized In Music Club Raid

Confiscation of 1,000 bottles of home brew and 150 gallons of wine was reported by prohibition agents in a raid yesterday on the Crescendo Music Club, in the basement at 1203 Airbrake avenue, Turtle Creek. Nicholas Godick was arrested.

A 150-gallon still, 5,300 gallons of mash and 60 gallons of moonshine were found in a house in Texas avenue, Mifflin Township, the agents said. Dominick Seraboli, alleged to have fled from the place, was captured after a chase.

14 Held in Dry Raid By East End Police

Fourteen men were arrested and a small quantity of moonshine and home brew confiscated in a raid on a house at 6941 Formosa way late yesterday, according to East End police. Henry Moore, 30, alleged proprietor, was charged with keeping a disorderly house, the 13 others were accused as visitors.

Jobless Man Killed By Shot He Fired

Alexander Chernatowich, 44, of 5448 Second avenue, died last night in Montefiore Hospital from a bullet wound he fired into his stomach Tuesday night, in his home, according to the Coroner's report. He was despondent over unemployment.

THREE ON BAIL IN ARSON CASE

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Three Pittsburgh men were brought here yesterday to face charges of arson in connection with a fire nearly two years ago at Sugar Lake.

Affidavits signed by neighbors were obtained by Daniel Smith, of Cochranton, charging Carl F. Hespenheide, William Hespenheide and Robert A. Kutcher, all of Pittsburgh, with firing a dwelling owned by Smith at the lake.

Arrested in Pittsburgh, the men were arraigned before an alderman here last night. They pleaded not guilty and were released under $1,000 bail each.

Train Kills Man Sitting on Track

Sitting on the Pennsylvania Railroad track in front of his home near Dravosburg Station at 4 a. m. today, John Neely, 40, was killed by a south-bound freight, according to a morgue report. No reason could be ascribed for the man's action. Neely lived about 300 yards south of Dravosburg Station.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

DEPEND ON ZEMO TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Soothing, healing, invisible ZEMO is used in thousands of homes to bring relief from the torture of itching, burning Eczema. ZEMO has been used for twenty years with remarkable success to stop itching and draw the heat and sting out of the skin, and help clear away Rashes, Ringworm, Pimples and other annoying skin or scalp irritations. All Dealers, 35c, 60c, $1.00.

IT'S GREAT TO SEE THEM EAT!

IT GIVES you a real thrill, doesn't it, to see your youngster enjoying his food? To watch him dip lustily into the cereal bowl and cram his little mouth full? For it's a cheery sign that he's well—and that he's doing his part toward building strength and growth and health.

So tomorrow, set the stage and give your son or daughter a bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies and milk. Makes no difference whether it's breakfast, lunch or supper—watch him eat!

Rice Krispies fascinate children. Delicious, toasted rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream. One of the best cereals for young folks ever made.

Rice Krispies are such good, nourishing food. So easy to digest they don't overtax. So much better than many heavy dishes—particularly at supper. For Rice Krispies invite restful sleep. Splendid to serve with the after-school glass of milk.

NEW Easy-Open Top

You'd be interested to see the care with which Kellogg's Rice Krispies are made. No hands ever touch this cereal. Gleaming machinery. Spotless ovens. Sunlit kitchens. And Rice Krispies are sealed in a WAXTITE bag which is placed inside the red-and-green package and keeps every kernel oven-fresh. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

NEW EASY-TO-OPEN TOP—You don't need to cut or tear the package. Simply press with your thumbs along dotted line — and the patented hinged top opens!

Clunk Is Possibility As Next Mayor

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, July 28.—Pittsburgh politicians in Harrisburg are devoting much of their spare time—of which there is a plenitude—to discussion of the next mayoralty campaign, and a new name has been injected into the picture along with those of Charles H. Kline, President of Council John Herron and Controller J. P. Kerr.

Mark Shields

It is that of Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk.

Clunk is a member of the Republican State Committee, elected with the support of Senator James J. Coyne. He would, if elected Mayor, be friendly to the Oakland Senator, and the latter would like to see the Mayor's office in the hands of some one with whom he would not have to divide influence.

So far the Clunk adventure is in the nebulous stages, and may not get far, but it is a lively topic here, and is not looked upon as an impossibility. The chance for Clunk or any one else not heretofore prominently in the picture lies in the organization break-up which will occur if Mayor Kline is not a candidate for re-election.

* * *

Few Believe Kline Will Enter Race Again

Despite the Mayor's recent activity, and his unquestioned confidence in the success of his own star of fortune, there are few leaders in Harrisburg who believe the Mayor will chance a decision again before the electorate. It is argued that his demand for a change of venue on his trial of misconduct in office would be an insurmountable barrier. In essence, he intimated he could not find 12 men or women in Pittsburgh whose fairness he would trust, yet as a candidate he would ask approximately 80,000 to trust him.

Clunk, it will be recalled, was made chairman of the speakers and meetings committee of the last campaign in Allegheny County, giving him that much more recognition. His advancement there was on a parity with the strategy which selected William H. Coleman as chairman of the campaign committee, a move designed to give him prominence which might be beneficial in his campaign for judge of the Common Pleas Court. Coyne was responsible for both appointments.

* * *

Park Could Be Judge If Smith Succeeded Him

Andrew T. Park, district attorney of Allegheny County, can become a judge of Common Pleas Court of the county if the sitting judges will agree to select as his successor Ralph Smith, campaign manager of the Pinchot-Butler ticket in the last primary. The vacancy would occur through the resignation of Judge Swearingen, who has been ready to retire for some time, but who has been dissuaded because his fellow judges and Republican leaders felt that Gov. Pinchot would appoint Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank.

Such an appointment would be extremely unsatisfactory to the regular Republican organization, to which belongs a majority of the judges on the bench.

Park is generally understood to desire promotion to the bench. His ambition is unattainable through the connivance of Gov. Pinchot, unless there are commitments agreeable to the Governor and his friends.

* * *

Coyne Hasn't Forgotten Campaign Attacks

He was a candidate for district attorney against Park in the last county primary, and, though defeated, received a much bigger vote than even his most ardent friends expected.

The condition of the Park appointment to the Swearingen vacancy, selection of Smith as district attorney, is not apt to be consummated. Coyne has no friendly feeling to Smith because of the manner in which the latter singled him out for attack in the state primary. In addition to his influence over the judges through organization influences, Coyne has relations with Park which would prevent the latter stepping aside and turning the district attorney's office over to a Coyne foe.

However that may be, the bargain above cited could be consummated, so far as the Governor's office is concerned. As it seems impossible of accomplishment, the best guess is that Judge Swearingen will continue to hold office.

Fear of Socialists Stifles Free Speech

One of the most remarkable occurrences in the history of any legislative body came in the House yesterday when Representative William F. Stadtlander had expunged from the record remarks by Representative Matthew Dunn in praise of Representative Darlington Hoopes, Socialist member from Berks County, together with a prediction that there might be more Socialist members of the House if there was not passed a greater measure of relief than now seems probable.

Stadtlander moved that Dunn's remarks about political parties be stricken out, and the House backed him, despite the fact that the Socialist party is a legitimate party, cialist party is a legitimate party.

Those voting to stifle Dunn later explained that they didn't think it good business to have public record of a prediction that Socialists might win in November. As an example of the throttling of legitimate free speech this was the gem of all time.

PRINTING PROBE DELAYS JURY FINDINGS

County Investigation Widens, Witnesses 'Out of State'

Investigation of county printing contracts will delay the grand jury's final presentment and indictments in its various inquiries probably until next Tuesday.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park revealed this today when he said three important witnesses, whose testimony is necessary for completion of the printing probe, are on their vacations and will not be back until Monday.

OUT OF STATE

When subpena servers tried to find the three they learned all were out of the state. H. C. Kolb, salesman for the William G. Johnston Company, printers, was the principal witness yesterday. Employes of County Commissioners' office also testified.

Three men connected with the Duquesne Slag Company have been subpenaed today to give further evidence in the probe of Watson Bowser's $200,000 slag hauling contract at the county airport. This completes the Bowser probe, unless some unexpected developments occur.

PRESENTMENT DELAYED

Instead of making its presentment Friday, as had been expected, the jury may spend the day reviewing its first draft, so it can be made ready to turn over to the court. The final pages, dealing with the printing probe, will be added Monday or Tuesday.

The presentment on the wholesale purchase of tax receipts is said to be about completed. Rumors have it that three political workers from the Third Ward and one or two from the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Twelfth Wards will be indicted.

URGE NEW FIGHT ON MINE FIRE

A new outbreak of a mine fire near Baldwin road, Crafton, may bring a special session of City Council next week.

The fire has worked around the ends of a ditch dug on the McShane property, and immediate action is required to confine it, according to engineers.

The city has spent $56,000 in two years, fighting the fire by trench methods. It is estimated $8,000 more will be required.

Crafton Borough, which has been paying one-fourth of the cost, will continue to pay in like proportion.

Wilkinsburg Man Robbed in His Auto

Harvey R. Weston, of 465 Ella street, Wilkinsburg, was robbed of $15 and his automobile license cards by two armed bandits who leaped on the running board of his car at Dallas avenue and Reynolds street early today.

City Facing Deficit, Real Economy Needed To Save Taxpayers

Pittsburgh industrial payrolls have been more than sliced in half.

Pittsburgh property values and the earning power of business as a whole have dropped with a dull thud.

Pittsburgh citizens, who incurred obligations with the dollar worth 60 cents, now have to pay the dollar when they have only 60 cents.

And the high cost of city government goes on to—another deficit.

Conservative observers say the deficit which the city government will face in December will be no less than $900,000—the same as that of 1931.

Others, not so cautious, estimate it might reach $4,000,000—unless the most drastic cut in government costs are made.

Their predictions are based on the expenses and collections during the first six months of 1932.

The total city revenue for this period was $15,609,891.

The total money spent was $14,535,870.

That leaves approximately $1,000,000 unexpended to go into the second half of the year—the half when collections drop off.

At the beginning of July, 1931, the city had almost $4,000,000 unexpended balance, and still at the end of the year it went into the hole for $964,000.

And last year, everyone agrees, it was easier to collect taxes than it is this year.

Prospect Unpleasant

To balance the budget for the coming year, the city must collect almost $10,000,000. And according to the Controller's report, current taxes were, for the first six months, 6 per cent behind the estimate.

It appears that Mayor Charles H. Kline and his councilmen must swing the ax of economy, and make the blows cut deeply. Economies have been made, but not enough.

In spite of adjusted economies by Council the city administrators are reported operating their departments, on the whole, at almost the same rate as last year. Present economies appear insufficient.

Bond Debt Going Up

Council has disbanded for the summer. Its members are slated to resume sessions after Labor Day. That will leave only four months to exercise economies. There are government officials who say the only alternative will be another month's furlough for city workers in December, or "payless paydays."

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

The last would mean the city would have to extend borrowing beyond the $68,000,000 already incurred. The bond borrowing limit is $84,000,000.

Obviously, borrowing means increased costs on the taxpayers.

Government authorities say furloughs and payless paydays are not real economy.

To secure an efficient government, municipal experts say certain permanent economies can be made by elimination, consolidation.

Some of them charge there has been extravagance, waste, inefficiency, and political pork-barreling that, while inexcusable, grew with the ability of the people to pay.

That day has passed.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in a series of articles will point out ways to eliminate some of the waste.

One method, to be outlined in tomorrow's article, suggests the abrogation of a water contract by which the city loses nearly $300,000 a year.

Man Fighting Arrest Causes Riot Alarm

A riot call was sent to East End Police Station last night when John Barber, 55, a Negro, of 6504 Frankstown avenue, was alleged to have resisted arrest on a warrant being served by a deputy constable from the office of Michael DeRosa, Jr., of Frankstown and Lincoln avenues. Police hurried to Shetland and Larimer avenues, scene of the disorder, arrested Barber and dispersed a score of Negroes.

2 Killed in Fight At Church Revival

SOMERSET, Ky., July 28.—(AP.)—Two men were shot fatally when a revival meeting at the Carter Grove Baptist Church at Quinton was disrupted by a gun battle last night. Three others were wounded.

A party of officers went to the mountain church to arrest Dick East, who allegedly was creating a disturbance at the meeting. A deputy and East's brother were killed.

INSURANCE FAKE GETS WOMAN YEAR IN JAIL

Mrs. Miller Sent to Workhouse for Erie Deception

ERIE, Pa., July 28.—Mrs. Rose Miller, 48, of Westminster, near Erie, formerly of Pittsburgh, once a woman of means, started today for the Allegheny County Workhouse, to serve a sentence for one year.

Mrs. Miller, who weighs 257 pounds, pleaded guilty yesterday in the Erie County Court to an attempt to defraud an insurance company by falsely identifying a body of a man found on Waldameer beach as that of her missing husband, to collect insurance on the husband's life.

While Mrs. Miller was being transferred to the workhouse the body of the man found on the beach of Lake Erie and thought to have been a resident of Pittsburgh, lay unidentified in a pauper's grave at the Erie County poor farm.

$25,881,500 in Life Policies Paid Here

Of $276,000,000 paid to life insurance beneficiaries in Pennsylvania, $25,881,500 was distributed in Pittsburgh during 1931, it was announced today by the National Underwriter, a life insurance newspaper. The amount distributed here was second only to Philadelphia, where $43,271,400 was paid out. The largest single policy paid was $300,000, while there were 11 $100,000 policies paid.

Beneficiaries in Washington, Pa., received $664,000, while $580,000 was paid in Wilkinsburg and $561,000 in New Castle.

Legion's 'Big Guns' Arrive

J. J. DELLER SHOWS HELEN JASKUNAS HOW TO BE A GUNNER

The county commander of the American Legion explaining the hand operation of the Gardner .45 caliber machine gun, one of the first rapid-fire weapons ever built. It is part of the display gathered at Gimbels preparatory to the Legion's convention to be held here next month. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

HANNAH GABER, HELEN JASKUNAS . . . 'OVER THE TOP' WITH A TRENCH MORTAR OF 1893

Exhibit of U. S. Arms Offered by Legion

The big guns of the American Legion state convention have arrived. The little guns, too, but they're just an exhibit showing the evolution of small arms and artillery from the American Revolution to the present.

The weapons, an official collection of the United States government, were brought to Pittsburgh by the American Legion to be placed on exhibit at Gimbels during its state convention here next month.

Checking the collection of 101 pieces, large and small, as it arrived in Gimbels' warehouse yesterday, Maj. W. L. Clay, Pittsburgh ordnance officer, declared it one of the most complete exhibits ever shown. It includes almost every conceivable type and size weapon, from the small pistol to the heavy seige guns. Some of the pieces date back as far as 1764.

Also included in the exhibit is a collection of official World War photographs, and the famous Brady photographs taken during the Civil War.

Explanatory lectures will be given by Commander James, of the United States Navy, which also has an exhibit. A schedule of these will be posted in Gimbels store, and legionnaires and their families have been invited to attend by Jacques Blum, president of Gimbels.

PROPOSES LAW TO PROTECT PUBLIC

Consumers Move to Overcharge in Small Homes

Requirement for a plain statement of public utility rates will be introduced at the next regular session of the Legislature, Gov. Gifford Pinchot promised today when informed of the Sun-Telegraph survey which revealed hundreds of domestic consumers occupying four or less rooms in apartments and houses were enduring an overcharge totaling as high as 30 cents a month through inability to understand the Duquesne Light Company schedule of rates.

The Governor condemned the practice of utilities failing to inform customers of differences in rates. He declared himself for legislation compelling firms to explain this information.

CUSTOMERS PROTEST

Consumers quickly grasped the opportunity to avail themselves of the lower rate with publication of the Sun-Telegraph findings. Many consumers today applied at the offices of the light company.

Admission by the utility firm that a change to the lower rate would be made upon request of the consumer evidently spurred such customers to take advantage of the saving, while City Council considered the company's meager rate reduction offer for all users which would average 10 cents a month.

Gov. Pinchot's comment upon learning of local situation was:

"Legislation requiring a plain statement of rates is part of the utility program to be introduced at the regular session of 1933. Nothing can be done at present special session because subject does not come within call. I am enthusiastic about suggestion for compelling utility firms to inform customers of difference in rates."

In the survey conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and revealed yesterday, not one light company customer interviewed recalled being informed of any rate differences. In each case they related applying for the contract and being assigned a rate by the company's representative. These consumers included realty men who, until informed by a Sun-Telegraph reporter, did not know of a lower existing rate, despite the fact they were paying light accounts for tenants in some apartments.

RATE AVAILABLE

The lower rate available to consumers in apartments and houses of four rooms or less is called Rate B. Not one consumer could be found who had this rate. All were paying on the basis of Rate C, scheduled for dwellings of one to seven rooms. This latter rate meant 30 cents a month additional to tenants consuming 60 or more kilowatt hours a month.

The difference in the rates applies after consumption of the first 30 kilowatt hours, the change being: First 10 k.w.h. at 9 cents and the next 20 k.w.h. at 6½ cents. Under Rate B, all remaining kilowatt hours are based at 3 cents, but in Rate C the second 30 k.w.h. are charged at 4 cents. This is where the overcharge is found. The 3-cent bracket in Rate C then applies to the remaining kilowatt hours.

G. W. Ousler, general sales manager of the light company, admitted 75 per cent of all domestic consumers were billed under rate C. He further stated that only 25 per cent of the consumers used 20 or less kilowatt hours a month. However, the company was not responsible for the rate customers paid, he said, this resting with the consumer, who had to select the rate offering him the best advantages.

FATHER COX RIDES IN RODEO

THE REV. JAMES R. COX — STACK LEE

Father Cox, leader of the "Jobless Party," with the 72-year-old Oklahoma crack rifle shot, riding a real western broncho in the Father Cox Rodeo being held in old Exposition Park all this week.

Presidential Hope Of Jobless Aids Benefit Show

Father James R. Cox has turned cowboy and rodeo broncho buster extraordinary.

One of his first acts upon his arrival from Europe yesterday was to ride during the afternoon performance of the Father Cox Rodeo in Exposition Park, and he liked it so much he said he would ride at every performance of the rodeo throughout the week. The show is being held for the benefit of the Father Cox Relief Fund.

Lifting his 230 pounds into the saddle, the "shepherd of the jobless" told the grinning band of cowboys:

"My riding is like an Eastern politician trying to tell the West how to run the country."

Speaking as the Jobless Party's candidate for President, he said 1,000,000 delegates would attend the convention in St. Louis, August 17 and 18, and Pittsburgh alone would send more than 10,000.

Most of them will go in trucks from Old St. Patrick's Church, at 1 p. m., August 14, under his personal leadership.

Father Cox was asked:

"How will they pay their way?"

"Each unit, and there are between 1,500 and 2,000 in this district alone, will send its own delegates. There are 50 men in a unit, so you see we'll have a real turn out."

INGRAM MARKS ANNIVERSARY ON TUESDAY

Residents of Ingram will observe the thirtieth anniversary of its incorporation as a borough Tuesday with a parade and other festivities.

Various organizations will open the celebration, with the parade at 7 p. m. In line will be the Ingram Firemen's Band, the Boy and Girl Scouts, the American Legion and the Board of Trade.

The parade will end at the Borough Hall, Thorndale street. Residents will then hear a program of speeches by leading men of the borough.

Mr. McMahon

All former borough executives are expected to be present, D. J. Rex, first burgess, and D. H. Hainer, first borough clerk, will speak.

M. J. McMahon, first council president, will give the history of Ingram during the past 30 years. Garrett H. Geerlings, Pittsburgh newspaperman, will reminisce, giving what he terms a "neighborly talk."

During the program the Ingram Ladies' Choral Club of 30 voices will sing and the firemen's band will play. Free movies will follow. Closing the anniversary celebration refreshments will be sold, the proceeds going to help the unemployed.

Chairmen in charge are W. S. Wise, Carl C. Ditmar, William H. Seigfried, C. C. Grimm, Lee G. Brimmer, F. W. Macey and H. J. Welch.

THEY'LL CELEBRATE IN INGRAM FETE

D. H. HAINER . . . FIRST CLERK OF INGRAM'S COUNCIL

Mr. Hainer, former school teacher, has served the borough for 27 of the 30 years of its existence. A huge parade will mark its anniversary. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

D. H. REX

Mr. Rex, 82, first burgess of Ingram, who will take a leading part in the borough's thirtieth anniversary fete next Tuesday.

HANGS HIMSELF IN CEMETERY

From a tree whose branches sheltered several graves, a young man hanged himself today in St. Mary's Cemetery, Penn avenue and Forty-fifth street.

He was identified as Carl Herda, 25, who lived with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirby, at 140 Banner way. He had been jobless since October.

Two feet above the ground, his body was suspended from the tree by a rope. Mrs. Kirby said he had disappeared last night, promising to return in a few minutes.

Buses to Replace Trolleys in Beaver

BEAVER, Pa., July 28.—Street car service here will be abandoned and buses substituted, W. W. Baum, manager of the Beaver Valley Traction Company, told a meeting of citizens. Because of financial considerations no attempt will be made to lay rails on the new bridge over the Beaver River.

Real Gun Subdues Cap Pistol Bandit

NEWARK, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—On July 4, Philip Cintura bought a cap pistol for his children.

Having the cap pistol in his pocket, he attempted to rob a store. He laid the gun down while binding the storekeeper, and in a jiffy found himself looking into the muzzle of a real pistol. He went to jail.

GARDEN-HOME AIDES NAMED

A special committee to cooperate with one from the Y. M. C. A. in completing a study of garden-farm homes plan for coping with the unemployment emergency was named by Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association.

The members are Horace F. Baker, Senator Frank J. Harris, W. W. Mudge, William P. Witherow and Charles F. Lewis. The Y. M. C. A. committee is composed of John C. Hill, chairman; C. I. Leiper, James C. Rea and Mr. Witherow.

Braddock Bonds Approved by State

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(AP.)—The Department of Internal Affairs today approved eight bond issues totalling $483,700. They included one for $160,000 for Braddock, Allegheny County to fund floating indebtedness and repair streets.

SEIZED LIQUOR DESTROYED

The prohibition department has destroyed contraband liquors, some of high quality and some mere moonshine, to the tune of thousands of gallons, Robert Krause, deputy prohibition administrator, reported yesterday.

The result of 80 raids, the list of wet goods sacrificed, as reported to Federal Court, includes:

Moonshine, 890 gallons; beer, 4,210 pints; wine, 800 gallons; bonded whisky, 102 gallons; gin, 62 gallons; ale, 64 pints; one gallon of Bacardi rum, two quarts of bitters and smaller quantities of brandy and liquers.

WHICH GASOLINE IS BEST?

New TYDOL winner over 16 gasolines in first actual anti-knock road test . . .

FIRST IN ANTI-KNOCK
Proved by the Electric Ear—the most accurate sound meter known to Science . . . proved in a 3-day test . . . same hill, same car . . . and TYDOL won every triple-checked trial . . . No doubt about it, TYDOL is first in anti-knock.

FIRST IN POWER
The fewer the knocks, the greater the power, as every driver knows. And TYDOL'S smooth, silent strength is never wasted by knocking, laboring motors. It wins every power test.

FIRST IN MILEAGE
More power means more mileage. Get a tankful from any of the thousands of orange-and-black TYDOL pumps . . . and test it on your own hills, your own roads. Try it for knocking. Try it for power. Check your speedometer. And you will see that TYDOL, in addition to giving you all the premium qualities, actually gives you more miles per gallon.

COUNT AND WIFE OF M. P. KILLED

FARNHAM, England, July 28. — (INS.) — England's leading aviation experts came here today to seek the cause of a mysterious airplane crash which took the lives of Mrs. Alfred C. Bossom, wife of a noted architect and member of Parliament, her 21-year-old son, Bruce, and their guest, the 23-year-old Count Otto Erbach - Fuerstenau, of Germany.

The crash, during a thunderstorm last night as the three were flying from London to Southampton, was preceded by an explosion, according to witnesses. The chief probabilities, according to the experts, were that the ship was struck by lightning or was thrown into an awkward angle by wild air currents.

The bodies were found several hundred yards apart. The ship's entire right side was torn off, indicating the victims were hurled out instantly. The ship, rented in London, was piloted by Bruce.

Mrs. Bossom was the former Emily Bayne, daughter of the late Samuel G. Bayne, president of the board of the Seabord National Bank of New York.

HOOVER MEETS POMERENE

WASHINGTON, July 28. — (INS.) — Atlee Pomerene, new chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, held his first conference with President Hoover at the White House today. Taking part in the parley with the Chief Executive were Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Charles Miller, head of the New York district of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Pomerene arrived from his Cleveland home this morning. He will remain here until Sunday, conferring with various officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the board of directors and other financial experts of the capital.

The new chief of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation offered no comment apropos of the gigantic financial institution he now heads.

When he left the White House he accompanied Mills and Miller to the Treasury, where further conferences were held.

M'FEE MARRIES U. S. GIRL

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—(AP.)—Six months after obtaining a divorce from his first wife, William McFee, known for his vivid stories of the sea, married Miss Beatrice Allender, of Westport, yesterday.

McFee, a Westport marine engineer, gave his age as 51.

The author married at Nutley, N. J., in 1920, Pauline Khondoff, whom he met in Smyrna during the World War. He testified in his divorce hearing at Bridgeport, last February 19, that she was a Bulgarian and refused to learn English.

She deserted him in 1927, McFee said. A native of London, he came to the United States in 1927.

2 Girls Electrocuted In Fall on Third Rail

WILKES-BARRE, July 28.—(AP.)—Going home from a berry-picking expedition made to help maintain their family of seven, Sophia Casperkowski, 12, and her 5-year-old sister, Pearl, were electrocuted last night when Pearl stumbled and fell on a third-rail electric line.

Sophia was killed as she attempted to aid her sister.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 28.

To the Editor Sun-Telegraph

We have a great bunch out here prowling around. It's the National Editorial Association, composed of editors in smaller towns and weekly publications. They are just eating their way around the country, having a good time, and getting a lot of pleasure out of it, and giving everyone that meets 'em a close up of just about as representative gang of Americans as would be possible to band together, intelligent, well read, and no national advertising controls their pages.

Will Rogers

They are not conceited enough to think they "mould public opinion." They just go along and serve their communities with the most indispensable articles that they have. And yet their real power is greater than all your metropolitan dailies combined. Any person that don't read at least one well written country newspaper is not truly informed.

Yours, WILL.

SAFE ON ROOF PLAYGROUND

High above the heat and dirt of the city streets is a "skyscraper" playground where Hill District children play, safe from traffic hazards. On the roof of the Improvement of the Poor Building, Webster avenue and Washington street, more than 100 children gather daily from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. for games and exercise in the sunshine.

Swings, slides, sandboxes and apparatus have been provided and a shower is planned, according to John Donley, superintendent. The children are supervised to prevent their getting hurt or venturing over the five-foot parapet which protects them on all sides, he said.

Two Army Reserve Fliers Die in Plunge

CIRCLEVILLE, O., July 28.—(AP.)—Before hundreds of horrified fellow fliers and aviation enthusiasts, two United States Army Air Corps reserve officers plunged to death and were burned beyond recognition at Circleville Airport yesterday.

First Lieutenant Albert E Harter and Staff Sergeant Cuba Burns, had gained about 400 feet altitude after a takeoff when their plane faltered and fell.

Irigoyen Arrested In Corruption Case

BUENOS AIRES, July 28.—(INS.)—Former President Hipolito Irigoyen was under police guard today, following his arrest on corrupt practices charges for which he already has been pardoned.

The former President refused to accept the pardon offered by Gen. Uriburu, who overthrew him, and demanded to be given a trial, which he now is awaiting.

Mute Pair Married By Blind 'Squire

LEWISTOWN, Mont., July 28.—(AP.)—The bride and bridegroom couldn't talk, and the justice of the peace couldn't see, but the marriage went right ahead. Edward Martin, the justice, blind for many years, had an assistant prepare a marriage form.

Vale Gladizen and Miss May Yaeger, deaf mutes, read the document and wrote their assent.

The superstitious who've been shaking their heads sadly over the prospects for the debs of 1932, since the list has numbered 13, will be relieved to learn that another name has just been added. So good fortune is now assured the debs by pretty, petite Nancy Doyle.

Nancy, who is the daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Doyle, of Woodland road, Sewickley, has two sisters, Rebecca and Virginia, who've made their bows in the past several years. Although they are not triplets, the Doyle sisters do look amazingly alike. Nancy finished at Westover in June, by the way.

Today there's more news about what will be one of the most notable weddings of August, that of Anita Shields, daughter of the Peter Shieldeses, of Philadelphia, and a sister of Mrs. Harry Darlington, of Sewickley Heights, whom she has visited frequently.

Bridal Party

Anita has just named her bridal party, for her marriage to Alastair MacLean, of the Isle of Mull, Argylshire, Scotland. The wedding is to take place, as we've mentioned before, on Saturday, August 6, at the summer home of Anita's brother-in-law and sister, the Robert Livingston Clarksons, Callendar House, Bayville, L. I.

Little Elaine Darlington, daughter of Mrs. Darlington, and a niece of the bride, will be flower girl. Miss Audrey MacLean is to be her future sister-in-law's maid of honor. And there'll be two pages, Robert Livingston Clarkson, Jr., and Bayard Delafield Clarkson, nephews of the bride.

Serving as best man will be Capt. John Walford, of London, England. A reception will follow the ceremony, to take place on the landscaped grounds of the Clarkson estate.

Out-door Ceremony

After a trip on the continent, Mr. MacLean and his bride will make their home in London in the winter, and at Inverness, Scotland, in the summer.

The attractive Anita attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., made her debut several years ago, and is a member of the Junior League.

The bridegroom-elect, who is a lieutenant in the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, is a grandson of the late MacLean, of Loch Ridy.

Motoring off for the week-end to a nearby resort or to a house party is the favorite diversion of those folks who are staying in town the greater part of the summer.

For friends of the Elgin A. Hills, of Fifth avenue, East End, Huntingdon, Pa., is often the week-end goal, for the Hills, who have their summer place, Hill Crest, near Huntingdon, are most hospitable.

Recent guests included E. Alexander Hill and his bride, the former Barbara E. Zeigler, who entertained Dr. and Mrs. Ruedeman, of Fifth avenue; Katherine and Jean Stewart, of Butler, and Porter Sawyer Kier and Samuel S. Scott, of Pittsburgh.

Betty Hill has as her guests Dorothy Demmler, of Pittsburgh and Kathryn Miller and Virginia Lindsay, of Butler.

Friends Guests

The Ralph H. Thomases of Singer place and their sons, Ralph H. Thomas, Jr., Jack and Bobby, have just returned from a fortnight with the Hills.

The Ian Forbes and their son, Ian, Jr., and daughters, Jean and Betty Ann, of Conshohocken, are enjoying the swimming and mountain climbing at Hill Crest. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Forbes are sisters of Mrs. Hill.

Mrs. Harris Crawford, Mrs. Hill's mother, is also her guest.

W.C.T.U. to Hold Street Session In Crafton

The ever-active women's clubs fail to let their enthusiasm wane during the two hottest months of the year. July and August always bring some interesting activity on their behalf.

This evening there will be a rather unusual affair, a street meeting, in Haldane street, Crafton, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The speakers are Miss May Macken, national lecturer on prohibition, and James Killip, who will talk on the same subject.

Both speakers are conducting a coast-to-coast lecture, having begun in New Jersey, and will give their final talk on August 11 at the national W. C. T. U. convention in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Julius H. Cohen, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of Hadassah, announces that the second annual summer get-together will be held Thursday, August 18, in Webster Hall, with a bridge party arranged for entertainment.

Mrs. Sarah Seidle, chairman of games, will include other entertainment in the program.

Betty Saunier Marries E. W. Luttig in Church

Mrs. Carrie Saunier, of Dormont, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Betty Saunier, to Eugene William Luttig, of Dormont, which was solemnized yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's of the Mount Church.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, having a cowl neckline with which she wore a lace veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Marie A. Luttig, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of green net, trimmed in peach, and a peach hat. Miss Kay Conway, the bridesmaid, was in peach net, trimmed in green, and had a green hat. Following the ceremony was a reception.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Luttig will be at home in Mt. Lebanon.

DESIGNERS STRESS SIMPLE, SMART NOTE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau.
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 28.—Hot weather clothes are designed here according to a very serious and severe set of rules. Regulations of cost, of utility, of simple upkeep all go as much toward making the Paris summer frock as any artistry of designing. Even the greatest of designers is not above choosing a most inexpensive material upon which to lavish days of labor, if the result is at once smart, practical and not too costly.

* * *

THUS MANY of the newer dresses paraded in the French fashion shows are pointed out especially because they will lie flat in a suitcase without mussing easily, or because they can be put on or taken off with a single gesture. Color, silhouette and general pattern have no more importance than such utilitarian points of view as laundering and a quality of fabric that doesn't muss.

* * *

THERE IS A new linen that comes in for a great deal of attention this year. At first glance it seems fairly stiff and heavy and possibly unsuited for women's clothes. But cut along the proper lines, without plaits or little folds, this material becomes ideal for country and beach frocks, since it is both sturdy and fresh-looking.

* * *

IN STRIPES of blue and white it makes a beach dress from Fauvety, so designed that the stripes meet and form angles at the center back and front. The only decorative touch is the double braid of the fabric, which outlines the deep V-shaped neckline at both back and front, and circles the waist.

* * *

A CHANGE of scarfs on Bruyere's white silk dress transforms it completely, as far as color is concerned. The neckline is cut deep, reaching the waistline at the left front, and leaving a space to be filled by the scarf, which ties itself to the dress at the back.

Mexican National Railways Head Out

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—(AP.)—Javier Sanchez Mejorada, director of the National Railways of Mexico, has resigned, it was learned today, and no reason for his act was made public. Mejorada left his office after more than two years' service.

He was minister of communications in the cabinet of President Portes Gil and after that went into the railway service.

Women Voters Plan Year's Activities

The Wilkinsburg League of Women Voters will open its year on September 13, when Dr. Carl Wallace Petty will be the speaker. He will discuss "Needs Versus Wants." Carolyn Hunt Mahaffey, contralto, will give a program of song.

The program for the Study Group of the League has been arranged by the chairman, Mrs. A. E. McCalla. Husbands of members and their friends are invited to attend the meetings, held at 7:45 o'clock in the evening.

A. B. McMurray will discuss the work of the Wilkinsburg School Board at the first meeting on September 27. Ralph H. Frank will talk about election board regulations October 25; Bessie Kann Sack will discuss wills and testaments November 22; Dr. G. H. Kirkpatrick, the present form of government in Wilkinsburg, on January 24; Carl W. Brueck, the borough manager form of government, January 24, again on February 28.

The Juvenile Court work in Allegheny County and the need of a new Detention Home will be described by Mrs. Walter D. Jones on March 28, and the real property rights of women by Miss Anne A. Alpern on April 25.

2 Ingram Boys Hurt In Bus-Auto Crash

Two Ingram boys were cut when their auto was wrecked at South Fourteenth and Sarah streets this morning, the second accident at that intersection within a week, in which a bus of the Bamford Brothers Motor Coach Company figured. August Bamford, president of the company, was driver of the bus this morning.

Joseph Conway, 20, of 408 West Prospect street, and Howard West, 21, of Dewey avenue, both of Ingram, were cut when their machine was knocked against a telephone pole. Last Tuesday two were injured in a similar accident.

Young Sleuths Bring Sentence for Thief

Raymond Leake, 27, of 809 Becks Run Road, admitted, in South Side Police Court today, that he had stolen 15 gallons of gasoline from the Jones and Laughlin garage, Sarah street. He said he was jobless and had a wife and three children.

Leake was arrested after four youngsters said they saw him leave the garage. Magistrate John J. Sweeney fined him $50 or 60 days in jail.

GIVE TO Charity BEFORE YOU GIVE UP THE GHOST!

NINE-TENTHS of the history of generous impulses can be summed up in the single word: POSTPONED—think, for example, how many millions for charity are locked up in the Wills of the living waiting for the testators to die!—and think how much more charitable it would be if some of those frozen funds were working now to alleviate human suffering and distress—how much greater is the charity that gives before dying instead of dying before giving!—why not do a little more while you're here and leave a little less when you go?

The DE PAUL INSTITUTE would like to be remembered in your Will but that does not help the DE PAUL INSTITUTE right now—it cannot take care of today's burdens with tomorrow's bequests—its needs are imperative and immediate—it must raise $40,000.00 a year to carry on its Christ-like activity of making the deaf to hear and the mute to speak—and it asks you in your charity to draw a check in behalf of the great charitable work that every hour draws upon it for support.

Bishop Boyle has ordered a collection for this great undertaking in every Catholic Church on Sunday, July 31st, the day on which the Gospel relates the miracle of Christ healing the deaf mute. A dollar from every one in the Diocese of Pittsburgh would carry on this noble charity. If you can both hear and speak, may we count upon your contribution of at least a dollar next Sunday?

LOCAL TALENT CAN SAVE GAME

NOW, AT LAST, we learn why we have a Vice President in these United States. Vice President Curtis will formally open the Olympic Games in Los Angeles next Saturday.

The passing of the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, as the scene of professional boxing shows, for the remainder of this year at least, marks the end of the attempt of local promoters to stage a Golden Era of boxing at a time when people had little money to spend for luxuries. The splurge was ill-timed. In almost any other year since the World War their efforts might have been fraught with success.

Apples Meyers

LET'S BACK-TRACK a bit in our local fistic history. For many years, outdoor boxing was a thing unknown in these parts. The old Keystone Club, of the South Side, which was born in the South Side Market House, stepped up to staging bouts on a large scale at Forbes Field and in the Exposition Building at the Point in the days when the veterans were coming back home from France. Harry Greb and Johnny Ray were the aces at that time, and later came Jack Zivic, Cuddy DeMarco and Willie Davies.

Those were flush times, yet the gates were not enormous. The largest for a regular show was around $17,000 for a meeting between Greb and Tommy Gibbons at Forbes Field. Followed a few Milk and Ice Fund shows, with Zivic and DeMarco pulling around $30,000, aided by a high pressure sale of tickets.

THEN THE LATE Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, put thumbs down on boxing at his park. He didn't want it for two reasons. One was that the fans crowded upon the field and marred the diamond. Another was that, with boxing getting a lot of ballyhoo in the newspapers during the summer, baseball suffered in the space contributed to it. The result was that, for some three or four years, Pittsburgh went without boxing during the summer months, but made up for the lapse with weekly shows at Motor Square Garden from fall to spring.

THEN ALONG CAME Apples Meyers, a fight fan, who was enamoured of the idea of building a boxing bowl after attending a series of shows in the Jolly Bowl in New Castle, erected by Bill Jolley. He interested two brothers and they joined forces to build the Meyers Bowl. That was four years ago. The first three years netted good-sized profits. A few years ago, another arena was opened in Hickey Park, an old baseball field in Millvale. Operating on a small scale, Hickey Park also was able to show a profit, and the two clubs did not seriously conflict in their operations.

FOR THREE YEARS, Jules Beck, who began promoting in a baseball park in Duquesne, alternated as matchmaker between the Bowl in the summer months and Motor Square Garden in the winter. Last winter, relations between Beck and the Bowl became strained, and Promoter Meyers went to New York and engaged Lew Raymond, a seasoned matchmaker, to arrange his bouts. That left Beck out in the cold for the summer season and he made plans to obtain backing and operate at Forbes Field, which again was available, upon the death of Owner Dreyfuss. However, the rental fee asked was considered too stiff. Meantime, Greenlee Field had been built in the Hill district for baseball games and other sports, and a tender came to Beck to assume the matchmaking duties there. He accepted, and the war to the death was on.

With Hickey Park still in the field, that meant three clubs ready for weekly business. They got under way, with the Bowl and Greenlee Field, with large seating capacities, vieing for attractive matches. The Bowl opened up with Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, Hickey Park with Johnny Jadich, the junior-welterweight champion, and Greenlee Field with Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion. Later Greenlee Field brought in Billy Petrolle, and the Bowl showed Kid Chocolate, the junior-lightweight champion. Matches were arranged at the Bowl for Ted Yarosz, undefeated local welterweight, with Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, and Johnny Indrisano, conqueror of four champions, but both of these fell through.

Harry Greb

HEAVY GUARANTEES LED to huge financial losses for both Greenlee Field and the Bowl, with the inevitable result that the Bowl finally curled up, reorganized for another show, last Monday night, and now has given up the ghost entirely and will house only amateur shows for the remainder of the season. Meanwhile Greenlee Field will try to come back with its chief rival removed, and Hickey Park, still operating conservatively and just about holding its head above water, falls heir to the best fight night of the week, Monday, while Greenlee Field shifts from Wednesday to Thursday, Hickey Park's old night.

So ends the first boxing "war" in Pittsburgh's history, the result of a personal feud between two men, leaving in its wake a group of disillusioned promoters.

What is the solution of the problem that faces the local promoters? It is written on the wall if they care to read it. The salvation of the game lies in the development of local talent. In the effort to outdo one another, they neglected the boxers in their own backyard to pay large sums and carfares to out-of-town men, not a few of them of doubtful ability. It is the old, old story of considering the grass in their neighbors' yards greener than in their own. Pittsburgh is naturally a good boxing center. The fans are here, and so are the youths with a hankering to make good with their fists. In no other community of equal size are there so many good prospects for ring success.

Take, for instance, the welterweights. Headed by Ted Yarosz, undefeated in 54 professional bouts and ready to tackle any of them, we have Tiger Joe Randall, Billy Holt, Davy Grove, Marty Gornick, Joey Speigel, Jimmy Belmont, Max Elling, Sandy Campbell, Marty McHale, Johnny Hayes and Jacquette Elverillo, among others. In the lighter classes, from flyweight to lightweight, we have Tony Marino, Willie Davies, Mose Butch, Jimmy Thomas, Johnny Cataline, Jackie Wilson, Andy Kosel, Johnny Montebano, Jackie Rodgers, Angelo Vergione, Leon Jendrasiak, Johnny Allen, Johnny Willis, Steve Senich, Al Sunseri, Jerry Clements, Johnny Durso, Battling Gizzy, Benny McArthur, Patsy Hennigan, Jimmy Gilligan, General Burr, Charley Baxter, Johnny Hazel, Joey Chemes, and others. In the middleweight ranks, we have Buck McTiernan, Lee Sala, Jack Wilson, Anson Green and Carl Montebano, Buddy McArthur, Frank Novak, Lloyd and Leo Clements, Harry Williams, Sunny Jim McVey, Ray Jennings, George Panka, Carl Gross and Jack Kearns are the light-heavyweights and heavyweights.

Ted Yarosz

ELIMINATIONS AMONG THESE boxers would develop some keen natural rivalries which would lead to profitable gates. It remained for two Buck McTiernan-Jimmy Belmont bouts to put the Bowl over the top last year. A few "naturals" are available at the moment, notably Baxter vs. Gizzy Speigal vs. Gornick, Butch vs. Thomas and Panka vs. Novak. The co-operation of managers and boxers would be needed to work out these "naturals," and, with them, the end of the boxing depression here in truth would be just around the corner.

YANKEE SPRINT ACES SEEDED IN HEATS

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette University, American sprint champion, will have Bert Pearson, sensational 18-year-old Canadian, among his opponents in the first trials of the Olympic 100-meter dash Sunday, the draw for preliminary heats has revealed.

Pearson is the Hamilton schoolboy credited with running the 100 meters in 10.4 seconds, world record-equalling time. His first appearance matching strides with the American Negro ace, promises to feature the sprint trials.

U. S. STARS SEEDED

All three Americans have been "seeded" in the 100 and 200-meter sprint heats. Eddie Tolan's first trial opponents included Frederick Reid, Great Britain's champion, and Theard, of Haiti. George Simpson, former Ohio State star, drew Ernest Page, another British star, and the Chinese, Liu, as opening opponents in the 100 meters.

Percy Williams, of Canada, the defending champion, drew Kornig, of Gerdmany, and Lutti, of Argentina, in his first 100-meter heat. Joubert, of South Africa; Jonath, of Germany, and Yoshioka, of Japan, also were seeded.

In the 400 meters, Bill Carr and Ben Eastman, the American stars, faced brisk opposition. Carr's heat includes George Golding, of Australia, and C. Hallett Stonely, the British 440-yard champion. Eastman's chief opponent is Joachim Buchner, German, who was third in the 1928 Olympics. James Gordon, of Los Angeles, the third American, was drawn in the same heat with Hampson, of Great Britain, and Sera Martin, of France.

GENUNG FACES TEST

Eddie Genung, American champion and chief hope in the 800-meter, faces Phil Edwards, of Canada; Paul Keller, of France, and Paul Martin, of Switzerland, in the first trials. Charles Hornbostel, Indiana boy, was drawn in the heat with Alex Wilson, of Canada, and Dr. Otto Peltzer, of Germany. The third 800-meter

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE WRITING WONDER—Ramon Lull, who was beatified under the name of San Raimundo Lullio, was born in Mallorca, about 1235. He led a worldly life until the age of 30. Presently, after nine years of sojourning in a monastery, he embarked on the life that stamped him as one of the most extraordinary characters in history. Traveling from place to place, this polygraphist, theologian and philosopher developed an amazing industriousness and production. For 50 years there issued from his pen a steady stream of books. He wrote encyclopedias, biographies, dialogues, oration and treatises, at a never interrupted pace. His average yearly production was 80 books, and the total output for the last 50 years of his life is the incredible number of 4,000 books. Withall he was active as a missionary in Tunis and was repeatedly sentenced to death, only to escape martyrdom by a miracle. During my sojourn in Palma de Mallorca, his last resting place, within the Church of San Francisco, was pointed out to me with pride. THE CROWNING GLORY OF MALLORCA—The Cathedral of Palma was begun in 1230 and was not completed until 371 years later, in 1601. For nobility, spaciousness, and the singular beauty of its conception, it yields only to one other edifice in the world—the Cathedral of Seville—in Gothic grandeur. It is more spacious than any other Gothic Cathedral, its aisles are as wide as the naves of most cathedrals, its choir is of an unearthly beauty, and referred to as "rhythmic music in stone." No other church in Spain, except the Seville Cathedral, equals it in grandeur and size, and neither does any in South or North America. GALL NUTS—The abnormal vegetative growth produced in various plants through the introduction of the eggs of the gall insects was first discovered in the Balearic Islands when the Romans settled them about 21 centuries ago. Gall nuts were first used as a chemical reagent to discover the presence of iron sulphate in sulphate of copper, by means of chemical action.

FINE SHOWING PRAISED BY CRITICS

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Pirates have captured New York! Fans of the big city, as well as sports writers of the metropolitan press, are beginning to see greatness in the youthful club which has climbed from the cellar to the front position in the National League race.

The youth, speed, power and aggressiveness of George Gibson's club has made a marked impression even on those blase folks who hibernate along the Great White Way. The Broadwayites, for example, sit up and take notice when they see boys like Floyd Vaughan, Tony Piet, Pie Traynor, Adam Comorosky, Gus Suhr and the Waner boys flit around the base paths.

TEAM PLEASES FANS

Despite the fickleness of the fans they are always ready to pay tribute to clever athletes even when they wear enemy regalia. So when the Giants' supporters in attendance at yesterday's doubleheader saw the Buccos come from behind twice to win a brilliant doubleheader, they were quick to put the stamp of approval on the Pittsburghers.

The Freebooters had to show a heavy punch of power and speed to win the first battle, 9 to 8. In the nightcap they were trailing by a run as they entered the ninth, but once again they unloaded a belated attack that carried the thrill of victory. The Buccos scored three markers in the ninth to win this encounter, 4 to 2.

Pitcher Bill Harris, of the Pirates, gained the unique distinction of winning two games in one afternoon. The Texas Leaguer was used in the relief role in both games and he was credited with the triumph in each case.

The Pirates used four pitchers in the first game, Kremer, Harris, Spencer and French going to the mound in that order. Walker, Gibson and Schumacher pitched for the home team.

HURLERS IN DUEL

Waite Hoyt and Bill Swift engaged in a thrilling slab duel in the second game. Swift allowed only four hits in seven rounds, but he had to come out for Pinch-hitter L. Waner in the eighth. Lloyd started with a single, but the Pirates could not get across the run needed to deadlock.

Suhr greeted Hoyt with a double in the ninth and Piet walked. Dugas beat out a bunt to fill the sacks and Grace won the battle with a single, scoring two runs. Harris added a safety tally when he singled and then retired the Giants in order in their half.

TRACK RECORDS APPROVED

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Fourteen new world track and field records, including Frank Wykoff's classic time of 9.4 seconds for 100 yards, made at Los Angeles in 1930, are due to be put on the books.

They all have been approved by the rules and records committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation and will be put before the congress of the I. A. A. F. tomorrow for final adoption.

Only four other American names are on the individual list. They are Paul Jessup, recognized for his world record discus throw of 169 feet 8⅞ inches, made at Pittsburgh in 1930; Steve Anderson, equaling 120-yard high hurdles record of 14.4 seconds, and Ben Eastman and Vic Williams equaling the 440-yard record of 47.4 seconds.

Jules Ladoumegue, the French star, who recently turned pro, is down for two records, 2:23.6 for the 1,000 meters and 3:49.2 for 1,500 meters.

Paavo Nurmi, the celebrated Finn, also is listed for two more marks—six miles in 29:36.6, and 20,000 meters in 1:04:38.4, both made in 1930. Other approved records:

Broad jump, 25 feet 2¼ inches, Chuchi Nambu, of Japan.
20,000 meters walk, 1:36:34.4, Armando Valente, of Italy.
25,000 meters walk, 2:03.49, by Valente, of Italy.
Javelin throw, 239 feet 3¼ inches, Matti Jarvinen, of Finland.
Decathlon, 8255.475 feet points, Akilles Jarvinen, of Finland.
One mile and 1,600 meter relay, 3:13.4, by Stanford (Shove, A. Hables, L. Hables and Eastman).

GERMAN, U. S. BOXERS DRAW

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Big, blond Heinrich Kohlhaas, bred in Muenster, occupied a place among Germany's fistic heroes today.

The Teuton Olympic boxing team lost four of the first seven matches against Midwest amateurs fighting for Chicago in Soldier Field last night. Then in the heavyweight class, last to be decided, Kohlhaas overwhelmed Duffy Dvonch, a sailor from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, and gained a draw for his country over the evening's route.

Kohlhaas rushed Dvonch from the first bell, floored him twice in the opening round and forced Referee Dave Barry to stop the slaughter in the second.

His victory kept Germany's slate in international matches clear of defeat.

The invaders started out to make a show of the defenders, winning the first three matches on points with Werner Spannagel, Hans Ziglarski and Josef Schleinkofer, of Munich.

Henry Rothier, Moline, Ill., lightweight, Tony Sutton, Nichols, Ia., middleweight, and Adolph Wiater, of Green Bay, Wis., the midwest light-heavyweight, then outpointed their rivals. The home team took the edge when Johnny Phagan, Negro welterweight, knocked out Eric Campe, a Berlin policeman, in the first round of their bout.

A crowd of 45,000 largest ever to witness amateur fights in America, watched the spectacle.

Bean Ball Passe In American League

CHICAGO, July 28. — (AP.) — Apparently the "bean ball" is a "has been" in the American League.

Since Will Harridge, president of the circuit, ordered all "bean ball" pitchers suspended on and after July 11 not one complaint has come to his office. Before his order protests were numerous.

HELEN JACOBS GAINS FINAL

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs, No. 2 ranking tennis star of the country, today won her way to the final of the Seabright tennis tournament with a hard-won 3-6, 6-0, 6-3, victory over Caroline Babcock, of Los Angeles, who left several defeated favorites in her path to the semi-finals.

Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Cal., won the final berth alongside Miss Jacobs as she defeated Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, in the other semi-final. The final will be played Saturday.

The Jacobs-Babcock match was a puzzling display with Miss Jacobs winning the first three games. Miss Babcock the next six for the first set, and Miss Jacobs then winning 11 in a row to take the lead the Los Angeles "giant killer" couldn't overcome.

Fight Results

At Greenlee Field—Tommy Freeman won by technical knockout over Tiger Joe Randall, 6 rounds; Frankie Goosby knocked out Lee Sala, 2 rounds; Max Elling defeated Tommy (Sandy) Campbell, 6 rounds; Johnny Durso defeated Jerry Clements, 6 rounds.

At Seattle, Wash.—Speedy Dado and Canto Robleto drew, 8 rounds; Ralph Chong defeated Tony Portillo, 6 rounds.

At Brooklyn—Isadore Gastanaga-Charley Retzlaff bout postponed until tomorrow night; rain.

CHAMPION REPEATS

SEATTLE, July 28.—(AP.)—Roger Hoogerhyde, of Pinehurst, N. C., today retained his national archery championship by virtue of a gross score of 1,298 for a double York round, three points better than the existing record. The defending champion scored 606 yesterday in the concluding day of the national tournament.

Tilden Advances In Pro Tourney

CHICAGO, July 28. — (AP.) — William T. Tilden, of Philadelphia, and his old rival, Karl Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, survived hard battles yesterday to enter the same semi-final bracket in the world professional tennis championship.

Tilden had the easier fight of the two, defeating Albert Burke, French pro champion, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-4, 9-7, but Kozeluh required four sets to dispose of Emmett Pare, of Chicago, 6-2, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Roman Najuch, the 200-pound German star, who upset Vincent Richards yesterday, will meet the winner of the quarter-final match between Hans Nusslein and Bruce Barnes in the other semi-final.

MACKMEN, INDIANS GAIN ON YANKEES, TIGERS FADE

BRUINS SPLIT WITH BOSTON; CARDS LOSE

Associated Press.

Consider the plight of the Detroit Tigers. After July 4, the traditional turning point of the season, the Tigers were in second place, a good distance behind the league-leading New York Yankees and with a very slim margin over a couple of rivals but still to all appearances the best team in the western section of the league. Today they are fifth, and Cleveland's Indians have usurped their place as the outstanding western club.

Since July fourth Detroit lost 13 out of 22 games in a disastrous road tour and yesterday they took it on the chin twice as they opened their home stand against the Athletics. The A's had little or no trouble pounding Whitehill, Goldstein and Wyatt for 17 hits and a 13-to-8 victory in the opener, then came back behind Rube Walberg to take the second, 4 to 0.

YANKS LOSE PAIR

Cleveland held its virtual tie with the athletics and reduced the New York Yankees' margin by taking a double bill from the league leaders, 2 to 1 and 12 to 10.

Smead Jolley, of Boston, turned in a neat hitting feat of a homer, two doubles, a single and a walk in five visits to the platter, as he led the Red Sox to a 15-to-5 victory over his old Chicago teammates.

Washington squared the series with the St. Louis Browns, winning the second game, 9 to 3, as Weaver and Marberry combined to give the Browns only three hits.

In the National League, the first-place Pirates stole the show by winning two last-minute decisions from the New York Giants, 9 to 8 and 4 to 2, and increasing their margin over Chicago to five games.

Chicago could get no better than an even break in a twin bill with Boston, losing a 2-to-1 decision to Bob Brown, but winning the second battle with some heavy stickwork against Fred Frankhouse.

QUINN EASY VICTOR

Brooklyn made it three straight over the St. Louis cardinals, 5 to 4, as old Jack Quinn won his second victory in two days by pitching the last ball in the first half of the ninth and watching the Dodgers score the winning tally on Mickey Finn's single in the last half.

Cincinnati's Reds turned back the Phillies 4 to 3, as Larry Benton stopped a ninth inning rally after giving only four hits in the first eight frames.

Dick Goldberg Joins Orioles

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Another Pittsburgh star of the diamond has been added to the roster of the Baltimore Orioles.

Dick Goldberg

First Baseman Dick Goldberg, starring for Wichita of the Western League, has just been purchased by the International League entry which also features Second Baseman Bill Regan and Third Baseman Frank Packard, two baseball luminaries of Pittsburgh.

Dick Goldberg is a graduate of the dental school of the University of Pittsburgh. A big fellow who is lefthanded all the way, Dick starred in the City League before casting his lot with the Topeka club of the Western League last Spring.

Playing in 137 games for Topeka last season, Dick batted .300, his swat card showing a generous sprinkling of homers, triples and doubles. Meantime, he played the bag in a satisfactory manner.

The fact that Goldberg jumped from sandlot competition into a Class A circuit to handle himself like a star augured well for his future. Dick followed through this year by putting something like 50 points on his batting average. Oriole sleuths camped on his trail and his purchase has been effected.

Goldberg's quick rise will be a source of deep satisfaction to his many Pittsburgh friends as well as the boys with whom he played in the Greater Pittsburgh district.

YANKEE SPRINT ACES SEEDED

heat includes Ned Turner, of Michigan; Sera Martin, of France; Lovelock, of New Zealand, and Tom Hampson, the British champion.

Pen Hallowell, of Harvard, American 1,500-meter tryout winner, and Harry Larva, of Finland, Olympic champion, were drawn in the same heat.

Olympic officials compromised on innovations by banning all use of starting blocks but approving, semi-officially, the new Kirby photo-electric timer, used successfully this season in the American championships and final tryouts.

These decisions will be put before the congress of the I. A. A. F. for final action tomorrow, at which time the suspension of Paavo Nurmi and other vital pre-Olympic subjects are due to be settled.

The American delegation meanwhile perfected plans for its part in the spectacular opening ceremonies, Saturday in the Olympic Stadium, by selecting F. Morgan Taylor, hurdling star of the Illinois A. C., to carry the national emblem, and Lieut. George C. Calnan, U. S. N., of the fencing team, to take the Olympic oath on behalf of the entire assemblage of world athletic talent.

Olympic Briefs

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Frantisek Douska, Czechoslovakian shot putter, gave evidence that he will be the man to beat in the Olympics here when he tossed the 16-pound weight 53 feet 5 inches in practice yesterday. Emil Hirschfeld's world's record is 52 feet, 7½ inches. Lee Sexton, the United States' chief hope, did 52 feet 8 inches in the American final trials.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Olympic athletes got a thrill through a grass fire in the Baldwin Hills yesterday. Breaking out south of the village erected for men participating in the international games, it cast forth great clouds of smoke and burned rapidly to within 100 yards of that boom town of brawn.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Prince Ferdinand Von Und Zu Liechtenstein, captain of the Austrian Olympic team, might well have asked yesterday, "America, where is your crime wave?" The Prince, attending to some business in a hotel, walked away and left his wallet on a table. An hour later, after a search, he wandered back to the table. His wallet, with $2,000 in it, was still there.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Col. Scharroo, of Holland, was elected president of the Bureau Permanent Des Federations Internationales Spotives at a meeting here yesterday. The organization governs international rowing, aeronautics, amateur boxing, automobile racing, equestrian sports, gymnastics, ice hockey, field hockey, roller skating, weight lifting, marksmanship, cycling, handball and bowling.

Three Kayos Mark North Side Bouts

Two knockouts in the 118-pound class and one in the 147-pound division featured the amateur boxing show staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club on the North Side last evening. Irish Ruane, of the North Braddock A. C. scored the quickest kayo when he stopped Johnny Tirpak, of the Cyclone A. C. in the first round. The summary:

118-pound class—Irish Ruane, North Braddock A. C., knocked out Johnny Tirpak, Cyclone A. C., first round; Jimmy Ferry, Mon Valley A. C., knocked out Tony Shur, Cyclone A. C., second round.

126-pound class—Gene Pier, North Side A. C., defeated Paul McDermott, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, 3 rounds.

147-pound class—Joe Moglan, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, knocked out Joe Mack, North Side A. C., second round; Harry Zieg, Mon Valley A. C., defeated Johnny Herrick, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, 3 rounds.

160-pound class—Bill Nichy, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, defeated Billy Schwerin, Mon Valley A. C., 3 rounds.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., July 28.—Mike Bardo, of Arnold, 135, defeated Elmer Wilson, of Wilson, 140, in a sizzling three-round bout, feature of the amateur boxing show staged under the auspices of the New Kensington Volunteer Fire Department here last night.

Jim Hightower, of New Kensington, won by a technical knockout over Johnny Dalchrone, of Springdale, in the second round, and Tony Caron stopped Johnny Cernos, in the second round. The men are 126-pounders.

RANDALL, SALA VICTIMS OF KNOCKOUTS

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Benny Leonard vs. Billy Townsend, 10 rounds, and Wesley Ramey vs. Jimmy Slavin, 8 rounds, Queensboro Stadium, New York.

Heine Hart vs. Johnny Cantonnett, 10 rounds; Andy Mellon vs. Rattle Kichline, 8 rounds, and Pete Poretti vs. Gene Michilini, 6 rounds, Phillipsburg, N. J.

Primo Carnera vs. Jerry Paveliec, 10 rounds, West New York, N. J.

Tracy Cox vs. Tony Seiolino and Harry Dublinsky vs. Henry Perlick, 8 rounds each, Chicago.

K. O. Kelly vs. Alex Knaub, 10 rounds, Havre, Mont.

Chet Smallwood vs. Ray Newton, 10 rounds, Mansfield, O.

Battling Battalino vs. Wildcat Willie Hines, 10 rounds, Fort Hamilton Club, New York.

Tiger Joe Randall was overmatched against Tommy Freeman, sturdy former welterweight champion of the world, in the scheduled 10-round main bout at Greenlee Field, last night, and came out of the melee the loser by a technical knockout, when Referee Al Grayber stopped the bout after 2 minutes 23 seconds of the sixth round.

Randall, who recently knocked out Davy Grove, in the same ring, forced the fighting in the first round and scored effectively until Freeman began to work on his body toward the end of the session. Thereafter the fight was a rout, Freeman winning as he pleased. All in all, Randall, who was outweighed seven pounds, at 151 against 158, was on the floor 10 times. He was down three times in the third round, the first time for no count when Freeman scored with a left hook to the head with Joe off balance and the next two times from exhaustion without being hit.

TIGER OVERMATCHED

He went down again without being hit for a count of six as the fourth round ended, was down for seven, no count, seven, four and nine in the fifth, and was given the benefit of the doubt as he got up at the toll of 10 in the sixth, only to have Referee Grayber stop the bout a moment later to save him from further punishment.

Randall was overmatched in the matter of weight and experience. Freeman bulked and towered over him and chased him from rope to rope to get in close and hammer the body. The body punishment told early and wrought the Tiger's undoing.

SALA'S BODY WEAK

Lee Sala, who recently succumbed in the first round to Freeman's body punching at Hickey Park, demonstrated that he has not recovered from that beating as he went down five times in the first round of his scheduled eight-round semi-final with Frankie Goosby, Negro, of Cleveland, put on after the main bout. The first four floorings came from rights to the body, in the same spot in which Freeman had done his damage, and the last one from a short right to the jaw. Sala took counts of nine, nine, seven, eight and was saved by the bell and dragged to his corner, only to be stretched for the count with a right to the jaw after 28 seconds of the next round. He collapsed again as he was leaving his corner for the dressing room.

The first two bouts lacked the knockdowns of the last two, but were hard fought, with Max Elling, of the Hill, winning all of the way over Tommy (Sandy) Campbell, of Weirton, W. Va., in the six-round second event and Johnny Durso, of Oakland, coming from behind to beat Jerry Clements, Jeannette junior-lightweight, in the opener.

The weather was threatening and the crowd consequently small. —HARRY KECK.

Between Rounds

The Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe bout, scheduled for Detroit next Thursday, is out and the pair may be booked here.

Bunny Buntach wants to match his Lloyd Clements with Frank Novak, Harry Williams, Ray Jennings or Buddy McArthur.

Joe Marcus is in from New York and will box under Buntach's management. He is a lightweight and wants to cut in on the premises of Charley Baxter and Battling Gizzy.

Jack Perry, former local boxer, now a manager, who was here last winter handling Guy Salerno, the middleweight, appears in "Scarface," the movie coming to the Penn Theater this week-end.

Young Saylor, of Charleroi, who recently defeated Paul Oger at Fairmont, W. Va., is in good fighting trim and ready to box any of the welterweights or middleweights.

Lew Raymond, matchmaker for the Meyers Bowl, which suspended business yesterday, says he plans to remain here instead of returning to New York. He has a conference set for Saturday with local men who expect to conduct a large indoor club next winter.

Tom Law, of Wichita, and formerly of Forest Hills, here, is managing Battling Dozier, Negro welterweight, and is anxious to show him in Pittsburgh, preferably against Ted Yarosz. Dozier claims to have scored 78 knockouts in 176 bouts, and he has been in with Andy Di Vodi, Jack King, Meyer Grace and others well known to the fans.

Hickey Park, Millvale, passes up its usual Thursday date tonight to put on the same card next Monday, the Boxing Commission having awarded the preferred night to John Herron's club following the defection of the Bowl. Jack Kloc and Billy Holt are in the windup and Buddy McArthur and Harry Williams in the semi-final, with Leon Jendrasiak meeting Jimmy Vaughn and Johnny Allen opposing Don Asto in the preliminaries.

Primo Carnera boxes Jerry Paviec in West New York, N. J., tonight, and Hans Birke in New York next Tuesday night.

BOUT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Rain last night forced postponement until tomorrow of the Ebbets Field boxing program featuring a 10-round heavyweight battle between Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, and Isadoro Gastanaga, of Spain.

WOMEN LINKS STARS VIE AT LONGUE VUE

By TOM BIRKS

Women golfers of the district hold the spotlight today with two tournaments. At Longue Vue, a one-day affair will be held, while at Culbertson Hills, just outside Edinboro, Pa., a 36-hole medal play event gets under way this morning and be concluded tomorrow. Bill O'Donnell has charge of Culbertson Hills course.

Tomorrow, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, another one-day affair will be held for the fair sex.

While the women are playing for the tourney prizes this week, the male sex will be sharpening their war clubs for an assault upon the prizes at the Bedford Springs tournament beginning on Sunday. All of last year's winners, including Pete O'Hara, Billy Marks and Sam Parks will be on hand.

The professionals from the Pittsburgh district are going to have tough sledding. It is reported that many of the leading professionals from the East are entered.

Mrs. M. B. Callahan, of the South Hills and Woschengo Club, won the mid-summer match play tournament for women at Schenley yesterday, defeating Mrs. J. Waechter, 6 and 4 in the final. In the second division, Mrs. Carrie Josephson defeated Margaret Curry, city champion, 3 and 2.

Wildwood's golfers made a game comeback against the Alcoma team in the second half of the annual match for the W. H. Nichols trophy at Wildwood yesterday, winning 76 to 67, but lost the match, 166 to 107, Alcoma having piled up a tremendous advantage in the first half of the match at Alcoma earlier in the season.

J. L. Hukill had a low gross score of 79 to lead the field in the Automobile Dealers' Association tournament at Churchill Valley yesterday. C. A. Rehtmeyer carded a low net of 118—56-62.

Mrs. C. L. Clark, Hillcrest, won the women's invitation tournament at Valley Heights yesterday with a gross 111.

Niblick Shots

Playing with Nelson Zimmerman, Vince Eldred, Pennsylvania state open champion, certainly got hot over the Highland layout. Vince came home in 32 shots after rounding the turn in par. The P. G. A. qualifying round is going to be held at Highland, and there is a possibility that the West Penn open also will go to the Wellington layout.

George Ormsion, Ted Luther, Johnny Capihianca and Toots Erath, all smart golfers, paid Greenkeeper Morgan, of the Bob-o-Link golf course quite a compliment upon the condition of the greens following the tourney there Monday.

Every time that Jimmy O'Donnell holds a tourney at Churchill Valley it rains. And the Hill Crest women, playing at Valley Heights, with Mrs. W. W. Colledge and her team, certainly got a fine drenching yesterday.

Swim Stars Enter South Park Meet

The Kennywood Park Swimming Club and Willows Pool have entered strong teams in the Allegheny Mountain Association swimming championships, to be staged Saturday at the South Park pool.

Gombos Brodi, Semago Choco, Stinner and Lupes will represent Kennywood in the 100-yard senior event for men; Margaret Ruby and Mary Gustashaw are entered in the 50-meter novice race for women, and John Brodi, Jack Davis and Maguire in the 50-meter novice race for men.

The Willows pool has entered a full team, including Josephine Wagner, Jane Layton, Ann Bryan, Marjorie Douds, Betty Makara, Arvella Leathers, Maretta Croft, Grace Layton, Jack Denny, Bob Renner, Frank La Chance, Bill Sylvester, Bill Renner, Bill Lewis, Joe Wagner, Dick Goldcap and Tom McKenna.

Entries for the affair will close at A. A. U. headquarters tonight.

Crew Plans Changed For Olympic Races

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—For the first time in Olympic rowing tournaments, the shells will race three and four abreast in the international games starting next week.

This arrangement so speeds up the programs, the international Rowing Federation voted to abandon the tentative morning races and confine activities to the five afternoon sessions.

KING REWARDS YANKS

COWES, Isle of Wight, July 28.—(AP.)—The four skippers of the United States six-meter fleet, which successfully defended the British-America yachting cup against a British challenge were received by King George aboard the royal yacht yesterday and presented with the cup they hold for another year.

SWISSVALE COPS LEGION TITLE

One big inning, the fourth, during which eight runs were scored, enabled the Swissvale American Legion junior baseball nine to win the Allegheny County title in a playoff game with the South Hills team at Forbes Field last evening. The teams had split even in two games played previously.

The Swissvale nine, defending champions of the state, will engage the Beaver County champions in the next round. This game likely will be played at Forbes Field.

Pete Snyder, on the mound for South Hills, went to pieces in the fourth round, and Swissvale put the game on ice. R. Riley, Garbark and Roberts led the Swissvale attack with two hits each. Neel collected a pair for South Hills, including a double and a triple.

U. S. Tennis Stars Win in Canada

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 28.—(AP.)—Led by the Chicago delegation, six players from the United States yesterday advanced to the quarter-final round in the men's and women's singles events in the Canadian national tennis championships.

George Lott, of Chicago; Frankie Parker, the youthful Milwaukee star, and Keith Warner, of Los Angeles, survived in the men's tournament to try conclusions with a quintet of established Canadian stars, including three members of the Davis Cup team.

The Harvard doubles team of Walter Arensberg, of Pittsburgh, and Crum Thompson, of Portland, Ore., entered the fourth round of men's doubles with a 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 victory over E. E. Heppenstall and Earl Pennock, of Ottawa.

AYTON JR. WINS

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Laurie Ayton, Jr., son of the veteran Scotch professional of Evanston, Ill., upset Bob Cochran, of St. Louis, the defending titleholder, 4 and 2, in the second round of the Western junior golf championship yesterday.

PLAY RESUMED IN CENTER NET TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Pittsburgh Center Junior and Boys' tennis championships, rained out shortly after inauguration of activity yesterday, resume play on the P. A. A. rectangles today. Chairman H. M. Rinehart has announced that other courts in addition to the three on the Winged Head lot will be available for use and orders contestants to report for battle no later than 9:30 a. m. under penalty of default.

In view of the record field entered in the milling, it is possible that final jousts will be held over until Saturday. This fate is especially probable for the junior windup, there being no less than five rounds required to terminate the competition. Only one contest was completed yesterday morning, a boys' tussle in which Francis Cotter eliminated Robert McElroy, 6-4, 6-1. In the same division, Bill Fay was leading Ralph Henderson, 6-4, 3-2 and service up, when the downpour got under way, while Bob Burnett, third seeded junior, was deadlocked at a set apiece with Don Krey, of Carnegie Tech.

COMMITTEE NAMED

J. Phillips Davis, president of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, yesterday released a definite list of committeemen for the third annual Pittsburgh public parks tournament, slated to begin at Frick and Schenley parks next Monday and to continue throughout the coming week. The following highly representative group has been nominated:

Frank Broida, parks men's singles champion the past two seasons; Harvey S. Crass, superintendent of Frick Park; J. Phillips Davis, J. Don Mattern, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, which is sponsoring the event; David I. McCahill, local member of the United States Lawn Tennis Association committee on promotion of municipal racqueting, and James Moore, superintendent of Pittsburgh parks, Paul G. Sullivan, P. T. A. secretary, previously had been named chairman.

CAPABLE OFFICIALS

A numerous group of Steel City players and officials will be recruited to aid in the actual running off of contests. Personnel of this array will be published later in the week.

Entries for the municipal tilting must be filed in writing with the tournament chairman at 4748 Wallingford street, Pittsburgh. The lists will be closed promptly at noon next Saturday, July 30. All racqueters not affiliated with organizations boasting private courts are eligible and invited to compete. Entrants, in order to comply with city park regulations, must obtain parks tennis permits before engaging in action.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—If business had improved as much in the last month as the Boston Red Sox, we'd all be around that corner where prosperity's been hiding and loping up Boom street like a greyhound.

I am scraping these statistics right off Babson's charts. Since Marty McManus stepped in as manager, a month ago, the Red Sox have stepped up their winnings 100 per cent. If the steel industry did half as well as the downtrodden Boston club, Charley Schwab would be flooding Rotary Clubs with optimistic monologues, brokers would be turning handsprings in Wall Street and G. O. P. orators would be clashing with Democrats claiming the credit.

So let's give a hand to the Red Sox. Maybe they'll pull the country out of this depression, after all. About everything else has failed.

MEXICO STARS HURT

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Two members of the Mexican Olympic team were injured so badly in an automobile accident last night that they may be unable to compete. Fidel Lariliano, 23, wrestler, suffered back injuries, and Vincent Mayagoitia, also 23, gymnast, received cuts and bruises on the head. The car in which they were riding, driven by Edward Dager, a friend, collided with another automobile.

SHIELDS OUT OF CUP PLAY, DRAW SHOWS

PARIS, July 28.—(AP.)—Wilmer Allison today was selected to take the place of Frank Shields as singles player on the United States Davis Cup team and will play Henry Cochet in the second match of the challenge round with France tomorrow.

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., United States number one, will meet Jean Borotra in the first match.

Bernon Prentice, American team captain, decided to replace Shields with Allison after the former had failed to reach top form in the play at Wimbledon and against Germany in the interzone final last week-end.

Allison thus will play the same program as Cochet, two singles matches and one doubles as he will pair with John Van Ryn against Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the doubles play Saturday.

The draw assures a probable thrilling climax to the play on Sunday when Vines plays Cochet in the last match of the round.

LAUSANNE PACT BRIGHTENED SENTIMENT

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The improved sentiment in the financial world has been in part a result of the Lausanne conference, Representative Wall Street bankers think that, irrespective of what decision will be made in the United States, the agreement, cutting down reparations to the small lump sum, will be final and not subject to substantial change.

Mr. Rukeyser

Not all the heads of Wall street banks are debt cancellationists. The President of one substantial money reservoir indicated that the maximum concession which the United States Treasury should make should be to forego interest. He suggested that the Treasury insist on 100 per cent of the principal, as determined by existing debt agreements.

Incidentally, some of the highly placed bankers attach great significance to the recent improvement in selected commodity prices and in the investment market.

BANKER SEES TURN

One went so far as to say that the turn in business has already come, though it is not yet conclusively reflected in the statistical indicators. Irrespective of this, it is apparent that some of the big shorts have not yet been convinced.

In regard to the report that Gov. Roosevelt, if elected to the presidency, might modify the American policy toward Russia, bankers pointed out that Russia stopped buying here because its credits were exhausted—and not for political reasons.

Even though the Soviet seemingly has met all its acceptance obligations, the banks, with one exception, have been leery of extending credit accommodations. The banks, of course, were not such good guessers, for some of those whom they trusted have defaulted.

Word is getting around the Street that the election campaign will not be an out and out fight between a radical and a conservative.

FAVOR SALES TAX

State legislators in various states have expressed interest in my recent reports on the successful working out of the consumers' sales tax in Mississippi.

David Elliott, member of the Colorado State Senate, writes:

"I quite agree with you on the sales tax—far better than the new (federal) law. In fact, I've about concluded it would be better for states than a state income tax."

Raymond T. O'Keefe, member of the Illinois Assembly, who introduced a sales tax bill in the last session, writes:

"I am still of the opinion that a consumers' tax bill passed by the next special session of the Legislature is the only solution that will furnish revenue to meet the payrolls of firemen, policemen, school teachers, city and county employes, and at the same time reduce the tax on homes and real estate 50 per cent."

STOCK PRICES AGAIN RUSH FORWARD

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The reborn bullish enthusiasm in the securities markets showed no sign of flagging today, as stock prices swept forward again, spurred on by pronounced strength of the dollar as against foreign currencies, and further gains in wheat and cotton.

Virtually all groups of shares forged ahead, after a few waves of active profit-taking had been absorbed in the morning. Gains by early afternoon ranged from 1 to 5 points in many of the leaders. Shorts were squeezed in such issues as American Telephone and Union Pacific. Brokers reported buying from London, Paris, and many cities in the interior. Trading was the most active since February in the first two hours.

A number of shares sagged fractions to a point in the early profit-taking, but these declines were short-lived. Advances of 3 to 5 points appeared in such issues as Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, and Delaware and Hudson. Issues up 2 or more included United States Steel preferred, Coca Cola, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas and Southern Pacific, and about 1, United States Steel common, Standard of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York Central, General Electric and General Motors. Oils were somewhat tardy in joining the move.

Chart readers pointed out that the rebound would shortly reach a testing area, as it approaches the halfway point between the peak of the preceding rally, recorded early in March, and bear market low touched on June 1. Each successive phase of the major bear movement has been followed by a temporary recovery of roughly half of the ground lost. The March-June decline was the seventh downswing since autumn of 1929, and the usual rebound was somewhat slow in getting started. If the market is able to carry on beyond the limits of a normal technical rebound, market theorists will be greatly encouraged. Much may depend, they contend, on the autumn recovery in business, first, scattering signs of which are now appearing, and the avoidance of any unexpected shock to confidence.

The fresh strength of the dollar was generally attributed in banking quarters to sales of sterling and French francs to buy dollars to pay for American securities. London has recently shown a pronounced increase in speculative interest in the American market. Continental gold currencies have reached levels suggesting a substantial return flow of gold to this country. Bankers were inclined to the opinion that current gold stocks were adequate, and such a large movement of metal to this country as would disturb Europe was undesirable. Nevertheless, some said that with our currency circulation at such an abnormally high level, more gold might help the Federal Reserve in its credit expansion program.

Bradstreet's weekly food index showed a slight recession for the first time in weeks, but the way a number of commodities have pushed up in the last two days indicated that it was temporary. Improvement in metals would be viewed as decidedly constructive, and some observers were encouraged by the signs of firmness in steel scrap and the advances in lead prices this week.

PRICE OF LEAD RAISED AGAIN

BOSTON, July 28.—American Smelting and Refining Company has advanced the price of lead 15 points to 2.95 cents per pound, New York.

This advance follows a similar raise yesterday which was the first upturn in lead quotations since last November. Several 5-point reductions had been posted during the early part of this month.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The St. Joseph Lead Company reports that 400 tons of pig lead was sold yesterday at $2.70 per hundred pounds, St. Louis, and 1,200 tons at $2.80 per hundred pounds, New York. The previous day's shipments aggregated 900 tons. The St. Louis price was raised to 2.85 cents this afternoon.

Blondie Is Depressed When Lottie Leaves Home in Quest of a Career

CHAPTER IV.

So Pa had been having his troubles, too, and trying to keep them from her—to keep her from worrying! As Blondie sat beside her father on the tenement steps, she realized what a great burden he had carried all his life. And now he was out of a job, and no money. Poor old Pa! She hugged him again affectionately.

"Well, I thought I'd have been able to get something," the old man said. "But things are very bad all 'round—they're bad. There are several matters—such as the rent, an'—uh—"

Blondie glanced off toward the flat entrance, her mind working rapidly.

"I think Ma paid the rent," said the girl knowingly.

"How?"

"Never mind."

"She didn't take yours—you know—your dress money?" Pa looked at Blondie in distress.

"Oh, I don't need another dress," and Blondie glanced down at the rip in the front of her dress.

"Poor baby! I've got several good leads out though," said Pa, trying his best to be cheerful.

"Yes, and you've got several things wrong with you, too, that the doctor told you about," and Blondie again assumed her maternal attitude.

"Doctors! I'm all right."

INTERRUPTED BY LOTTIE

Blondie looked at him quizzically. "I wonder," she thought. Then, seeing that he might catch the expression of fear in her eyes, she gave him a resounding kiss and said quickly:

"Do you know, we get three dollars bonus this week, on the Booster Sale at the store—three bucks maybe more. All the girls are talking about it. Gee, they're screams!" Blondie was making a lot of fast conversation to keep their minds off the doctor's verdict. "There's a party of them going to Coney Island on Sunday," she concluded.

"Coney. Well, you're going, too."

"Who, me? With that bunch of screaming molls—me?" Blondie's face plainly belied her derision. Realizing that her father knew she really wanted to go, she quickly changed the subject.

"You know, Dad," she said, reaching for Pete's excuse to evade an issue, "the rich aren't the happy people; they're sockin' 'em now. Do you know, the taxes are something fierce. We don't have to worry about those anyway," she laughed.

Unnoticed, Lottie had come from the floor above. Without a word she crowded between father and daughter sitting on the steps, using a battered suitcase to make the opening wedge. Pa got up quickly, with a pleasant greeting.

"Good evening, Lottie!"

"Good evening, Mr. McClune," Lottie emphasized the Mister very haughtily. Ignoring Blondie, she passed on down the stairway.

GOING AWAY

Blondie watched Lottie descend to the entrance of the tenement. There Lottie pulled over in the shadow of the doorway, and fumbled with her blouse.

"I'm kinda scared about Lottie," whispered Blondie to her father.

"Why?" whispered back Pa.

"She's kinda beginning to look around among the ginks—you know, Pa," came softly from Blondie.

A little whistle came up from the entrance. Quickly Blondie stood up beside her father, gave him a swift kiss, and gently pushed him toward the McClune door. Pa smiled knowingly and Blondie ran downstairs.

As she approached the waiting girl, Blondie's eyes narrowed. What was this? she thought, but she said nothing.

"I'm going away." Lottie could not meet Blondie's gaze.

"I thought you were up to something—where?" Blondie's voice was hard.

"I told you." Lottie was still staring at the drab wall of the entrance. "A career. I thought I'd like to say—goodbye. I guess you don't understand me and I don't understand you, anymore."

Blondie could hardly believe her ears, and she was frightened. Lottie going away? Where? What would happen to her?

"You're just a fool, Lottie."

"Goodbye, kid—" There was a catch in Lottie's voice as she moved away.

Blondie was frantic. She didn't know what to do. Lottie—her pal—going. She cried out:

"Lottie! Come here, Mug!—Don't go! I got a hunch about it, Lottie—you shouldn't—"

A TEARFUL PARTING

"I've been planning to get out of this dump for months, I have." Lottie interrupted as though she had expected just this.

"Well, it's wrong. I know it's wrong." Realizing that logical argument was futile, Blondie resorted to the feminine plea, all that was left.

"How?" Lottie questioned excitedly, still none too sure that the course she was taking was the right one.

"Something inside me tells me it's wrong."

Lottie seemed relieved. "I'll write you from time to time," she said, reverting suddenly to her haughty attitude.

"I'd rather you didn't," Blondie replied softly, realizing she had lost the argument. "You'll only have trouble to write about."

"If appearing on the stage is trouble and having a few decent things to my own is trouble—then give me plenty of it, baby!"

"Yes, and you'll pay for it plenty—" Blondie had completely given up now.

"Don't worry, kid — I'm smart." But as she looked into Blondie's eager face, strained with fear, she said brokenly, "I like you, Blondie. I always have, and I always will—goodbye—"

Softly, very softly, Blondie put her hand on Lottie's shoulder. Impulsively Lottie dropped her suitcase, whirled and threw her arms around Blondie's neck. They kissed. Lottie quickly pushed Blondie away, picked up her bag, and almost ran out the door.

"Goodbye, Mug—take care of yourself!" There were tears in Blondie's voice as well as her eyes as she called after Lottie.

"I will." Lottie's voice floated back to Blondie, but the departing girl never turned around. She, too, was crying.

Blondie walked slowly over to the tenement entrance, her tear-filled eyes following Lottie as she crossed the street. She watched intently as Lottie approached the flashy roadster, carefully parked some distance from the tenement house. Blondie's heart ached as Greenbaum spied Lottie and gave her a flourishing greeting. There was a perceptible catch in Blondie's throat as the car door swung open and Lottie stepped in. The world seemed to collapse around Blondie as the car dashed away with a roar of the exhaust. Lottie was gone—and Blondie was alone!

Synopsis

Blondie McClune and Lottie Callahan, friends since childhood, work in the same store. After work one evening, Lottie says she has a date and asks Blondie to join her. Blondie disapproves. Two men wait for them outside the building. When one becomes too familiar with her, Blondie slaps his face and goes home alone, to the poor section of the city. Later the two girls argue about the date and it ends in a rough and tumble fight. Blondie's dress is torn and she decides to get a new one. Looking for some money she had saved, she discovers that somebody has taken it. She greets her ailing dad when he arrives home and learns that he has lost his job.

Now Go On

"The rich aren't the happy people," said Blondie. (Marion Davies, as Blondie, and James Gleason, as Pa McClune.)

Grantland's Message Brings Word of His Nearness

As my father said that the code in which the telegram he had just decoded was written was known only to himself and one other, Hugh Grantland, I felt as if someone had attached an electric battery to my arm.

"Hugh Grantland wrote that telegram? Where is he?"

My father smiled slightly.

"I don't know where he is at the present moment, probably somewhere on Long Island, but I am reasonably sure, God willing, where he will be at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning—right in this room."

Knowing that Dicky was watching me, I uttered only a perfunctory "O!" and my father spoke again.

"It's the usual stunt. He and Lee Chow are on some secret mission, keeping their identity hidden. Hugh must see me, he says"—my father looked at the decoded telegram again—"and asks that you, Richard and Harry, with two other trusted men, be at your old bathhouse in that cove on Noyack Bay at 1 o'clock in the morning. You are to bring a speedy car, your revolvers, and some coils of rope, and you are to travel there as fast as possible by little used woods roads, beginning with the one running out of our woodlot at the top of the hill."

"Some job he's laid out!" Dicky muttered, but I think he caught something in the eyes of my father and Mr. Underwood which made him realize his churlishness, for the next instant he added a cheery, "But it's a job that can be done to the Queen's taste—except for one thing."

"What's that?" my father asked quietly.

"Why, the extra men, sir. Harry and I are ready to start any second, we have a powerful car, good revolvers and plenty of rope—by Jove, I hope he isn't going to stage any lynchings on the beach at 1 o'clock—but where are the extra men?"

"What time is it now?" My father answered his own question with a look at his watch. "Nine o'clock? Hand over that telephone, darling. You'll have the men." He nodded to Dicky reassuringly even as I handed him the 'phone, which is not listed, and which he uses for his private work.

He called a number familiar to us as that of one of his trusted men, and spoke briefly to him in what sounded like sublimated Mother Goose gibberish. He listened to the answer, spoke an approving "all right," and hung up the receiver.

"Three men, in a closed car, will come into the farmyard about midnight."

"Thanks, Chief." Harry Underwood was laconic, but Lillian put a pertinent question:

"Are Lee Chow and Hugh going to stay at the farmhouse for a while?" she asked.

"Possibly one day, he says; possibly two; not more than three."

"Well, then? Where in the seven hinges are we going to put 'em?"

"I have it," Harry said. "The bungalow!"

"We must not blind ourselves to the fact that there is danger wherever Hugh and Lee Chow are," said the chief. "I prefer that danger to be outside the house, instead of where the children are."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Two honorary members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club returned from their vacation on the farm last Sunday and stopped in the Sun-Telegraph office to tell everyone about it. They are Uncle Bob and Betty, who read the Sun-Telegraph comics for the kiddies every Tuesday and Thursday at 6 o'clock and Sunday at 12:30 noon, from WCAE - Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Little Betty was all excited about being back in Pittsburgh. She like Uncle Tobias' farm very much, only she thought that something should be done about the roosters waking up so early in the morning. Vacations to her are times when everyone should sleep late in the mornings, especially roosters.

She is just as brown as a berry and when asked if she brought anything back to the city with her she just scratched and said, "Only the jiggers."

TELLS OF VACATION

Talking about the two weeks at the farm, where Betty gained seven pounds, she said:

"The first thing every morning I had two glasses full of fresh milk, and then the cook would put ham and eggs or bacon and eggs, hot biscuits and a great big pitcher of milk on the table and if I wasn't quick Uncle Bob would have it all eaten. I'll tell you a secret, Uncle Tobias, after the second morning, said to the hired man that 'from the way Uncle Bob ate he didn't thing that they gave him much to eat in the city.'

"After breakfast, Uncle Tobias would take Uncle Bob and me out to the barn while he looked after the horses and things and then he would let me feed the pigs. He had five or six little pigs and I wanted to bring one back with me but he told me that he would keep it and when it got big enough to sell he would sell it and send me the money.

"After lunch, Uncle Bob would take a nap. He would eat so much that he couldn't move. I'd take a book and read, or write letters to my friends here, until Uncle Bob woke up. There was a swell creek running through Uncle Tobias' farm and in the afternoon Uncle Bob would take me swimming. He liked to duck my head in the water but I got even with him one day. He fell asleep and while he was sleeping, I hid. When he awoke and couldn't find me, he was scared. He ran around calling 'Betty! Betty! where are you? Oh! Betty!' until Uncle Tobias came from the house and wanted to know what was the matter. Uncle Bob told him that I wandered away and was lost, but I was hidden in a tree all the time. That was the last afternoon that he ducked me."

BIG EATER

Uncle Bob, after listening to Betty tell about her two weeks on the farm, said:

"Oh, Yeah, she ate three times as much as I did and as for getting sleep, she wanted to be on the go all the time."

"We had the best time of our life, I'd like to take her away again. She's a great kid."

So boys and girls, Uncle Bob and Betty are back and they'll read for all the members of the Sun-Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, the Sun-Telegraph comics tonight at 6 o'clock.

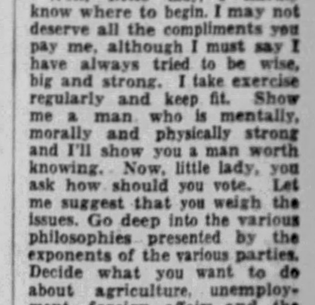
NEW SERVICE FOR SERIOUS THINKERS



Proposed Free Information Building in Washington, D. C., in which will be located the Frisby Memorial Free Information Bureau. In order to secure funds for the building, Congressman Frisby will answer questions and run errands for the general public at a small cost. Give him a trial.

By Mr. Frisby

As the time is getting short I would like to ask if there are any questions? Yes, there are. A little widow, who used to trim hats in my home town, writes as follows:

Busy Mr. Frisby:

You were always so wise, so big and strong, and so noble—I wonder if you can take time to answer one teeny weenie question from a lady who is frightened by the great issues the men talk about, but who wants to learn all she can—she truly does. How shall I vote in November? "Toots."

Well, little lady, I hardly know where to begin. I may not deserve all the compliments you pay me, although I must say I have always tried to be wise, big and strong. I take exercise regularly and keep fit. Show me a man who is mentally, morally and physically strong and I'll show you a man worth knowing. Now, little lady, you ask how should you vote. Let me suggest that you weigh the issues. Go deep into the various philosophies presented by the exponents of the various parties. Decide what you want to do about agriculture, unemployment, foreign affairs and the tariff—then meet me at the Roller Skating Rink at 8 p. m. Thursday night and I will take up one issue at a time.

Yours truly,
Horace.

An Unfair Practice

Duquesne Light Company Follows Queer Standard of Ethics in Overcharging Small Home Owners.

The Duquesne Light Company has been caught by the Sun-Telegraph in another of the unfair practices that have brought some of the public utilities into disrepute.

It has been taking advantage of the ignorance of small home owners concerning rate schedules for electric service to overcharge them.

The company has two schedules known as schedules "B" and "C" applicable to dwellings. In the case of an efficiency apartment or dwelling of four rooms or less a saving of 30 cents a month can be effected by paying the rates laid down in schedule "C."

In common decency the Duquesne Light Company would have been expected to tell applicants for electric service of the differences between the two schedules and of the benefit to the small home owner under certain circumstances in electing to pay under schedule "C."

No evidence can be found that the company offered any such explanation. On the contrary it blandly permitted its customers to pay the higher rates.

The company's defense of this unfair practice virtually amounts to the discredited slogan of unscrupulous traders, "Caveat Emptor"—"let the buyer beware!"

Such a standard of ethics ill befits a public utility in this age.

It may be that no way is open to Duquesne Light Company customers who have thus been overcharged to obtain restitution.

But they should not submit to it longer.

New Taxing Authority

Care Will Have to Be Taken to Avoid Abuse of Additional Power Proposed for Council.

Under the terms of a bill sponsored by Senator James J. Coyne, which Harrisburg dispatches say probably will become law, City Council's taxing power is to be widely extended. It is to be permitted to levy an impost on many things now free from taxation.

To the extent that the new taxing authority will relieve real estate owners of a reasonable part of the crushing tax burden they are now carrying it will be welcome. It has long been a shame that home owners should have to pay so large a part of the municipal expenses.

The onerous real estate tax has necessitated exorbitant rents and crippled business, besides making it difficult for people in modest circumstances to own homes.

But the new taxing authority will have to be used sparingly to avoid abuse. A bad Council might easily make it an instrument of oppression.

"O, it is excellent to have a giant's strength," says Shakespeare; "but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant."

The provision that taxes levied under the bill shall not be collected after June 1, 1935, is a wise precaution.

Hasten, Not Saunter

Red Tape and Delay in Administering the Home Loan Credit Are Deplorable.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the Home Loan Credit, enacted in the closing days of Congress, will begin to function promptly. It is reported from Washington that months must elapse before the law will really go into operation, owing to numerous and complicated details of administration which must first be worked out.

This timely and beneficent legislation was passed to relieve a crisis. Such legislation should HASTEN, NOT SAUNTER. Every effort should be made to cut out red tape and avoid delay, so that the emergency, which called forth the action of Congress, shall be met and solved as Congress intended.

The states can do much to relieve the plight of the householder and home owner by a revision of their homestead exemption laws. With the single exception of Texas, most of the states have been content to drift along under laws purporting to exempt homesteads from seizure or sale for debt, which are antiquated and inadequate to present-day conditions.

This is notably true of the state of New York, where a law, which is crude, imperfect and defective, has been further impaired by conflicting and restrictive judicial decisions. It is a subject to which the next Legislature should address its earnest attention.

THERE IS NO PRINCIPLE MORE DEEPLY IMBEDDED IN AMERICAN POLICY THAN THE PROTECTION OF THE HOME.

Legislation designed to secure and protect the home touches the interest of society at its most vital point.

It is the unanimous opinion of legal historians that among the beneficial measures in our system of jurisprudence, the laws creating and insuring the right to a homestead hold an eminent position. They are based upon the broadest considerations of public policy and are designed to promote not only the prosperity of the state, but to render every citizen independent and above want—secure in the possession of a home for himself and family, regardless of his financial condition, whether solvent or insolvent.

This policy frankly accepts the fact that it is at variance with the unrelenting rules of the common law, and sacrifices at times the just demands of the creditor. It deems the preservation of the home of paramount importance.

Society has progressed far since the ancient edict of the Roman decemvirs, whose Twelve Tables of the law contained a provision that "If the debtor be insolvent to several creditors, let his body be cut in pieces on the third market day; it may be cut into more or fewer pieces with impunity; or if his creditors consent to it, let him be sold to foreigners beyond the Tiber."

Hearst Papers Advocate:

1.—The five billion dollar loan to relieve unemployment and put billions of dollars into immediate circulation.

2.—Adoption of 5 per cent sales tax and reduction in income taxes, releasing income to finance industry.

3.—Immediate modification of the Volstead Act, permitting light wines and beers, reviving industry and employment, providing government income, ending criminal racketeering and restoring American personal liberty.

His Fate Is in the Box -:- -:- -:- By George E. Phair

There was a time he did not care
About the ballot box,
When all the world was bright and fair
In days of soaring stocks.

The tangled maze of politics
Was something vague and dim,
A mystic realm of plots and tricks,
A world unknown to him.

But now, with hunger at the gate
And commerce on the rocks,
At last he knows his very fate
Is in the ballot box.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 28.—Pirie MacDonald, whose outside display cabinet on the avenue suggests illustrations from "Who's Who," is a pronounced radical among the photographers. For the inartistic, he coined the term "lens-louse," which grew to have many interpretations.

In his pavement array, the passerby may note that MacDonald has photographed such notables as Otis Skinner, the King of Denmark, Alfred Lunt, James Montgomery Flagg, Bob Davis—a photographer of eminence himself, Rudyard Kipling and the like. MacDonald is contentious at times.

Upon two occasions he is reputed to have shooed startled sittees out of his gallery because their expressions "looked like buzzards hatching something." But generally he is unctuous, flattering customers and having a conniption of ecstasy when they finally hit the right pose.

His sittings are $100—or were, some time ago. And you pay extra for the prints. He makes but few appointments daily and will photograph only men. A society dowager is reputed to have offered him $2,000 for a single portrait, but he refused to break his rule.

MacDonald as his name suggests, is Scotch, and in excited moments his burr thickens into a porcupine bristle. He is responsible for the open-throated profile of Jack Barrymore and the outdoorsey he-manness by which many remember Rex Beach photographically. He will not kodak Japs or Chinese.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Out of the tragic Field of Anacostia has come this picture. By the time it is printed those "forgotten men" may have left Washington that scorned them and scattered over the country, carrying their bitterness with them. But this picture lives on. It is being repeated in every desolate hamlet in America today. It is the terrible symbol of "man's inhumanity to man," and it makes a mock of our pretense of civilization.

Listen, and then if you have the courage, face YOUR share of responsibility for this pitiful thing!

Dear Elsie Robinson:

One night last week we went down to the Bonus Camp in Anacostia. Oh, I've been down there before—in the daytime. I know you have, too, for I've read your articles and I thought they held all the misery there was. But now, after the night trip, I know there are things even you can't tell, and I can't shake off the memory of it, day or night.

You know how it is—darkness and mud. Stumbling on through the river mist and with the feeling of sleeping things around us, suddenly we came upon a shabby, ragged tent. Dimly it was lighted by a sputtering lantern on a box. On another box, in the entrance, sat a woman holding a child.

Oh, I wish I could make you see that woman. I suppose she was young, but you couldn't tell. She was like something that had been plotted out. Everything about her sagged—flesh and bone; even the beaten spirit looking out of her eyes.

She wasn't talking to her child. She wasn't singing to it. She just sat there and held it in her arms. Silent. Staring out into the dark.

And, Elsie I saw another Mother and Child.

There wasn't "any room for them," either, "in the inn." Like this baby, the other Babe was craddled in the straw, and His Mother, too, must have sat staring into the night, wondering what lay ahead.

I can't get it out of my head. I can't. I'm thinking of it all the time. She's only one. There are hundreds of other mothers in that camp, and starving children. A baby was born there the other day, in the mud. And another baby died — malnutrition and pneumonia. And over all the country it's the same. Millions living like that. Millions of babies!

Oh, can't someone do something—for all of them? Hasn't anyone a heart?

ELAINE BERGE.

Yes, Elaine, we all have hearts. We all will gulp when we read your letter. We all will think about it with a shudder, or a wave of anger, and then—we'll forget, and go on and do something else, something that we feel is OUR BUSINESS.

For that's our trouble. WE HAVE PLENTY OF HEART, BUT WE HAVEN'T MUCH HEAD.

It's easy for us to feel, but it's hard for us to think.

WE CAN PUT ON AN EMOTIONAL ACT; BUT WE CAN'T PRODUCE MUCH INTELLIGENT ACTION.

Tears won't save those desperate mothers and dying babies. Even prayers won't save them. They need ACTION. They need a definite understanding of their situation by determined men, who can see beyond personal profit and party policy.

Those fathers down in Anacostia who have to watch hourly the despair and death which sickened you—did they tell you their slogan? It is a very short slogan, but it is very good. It is—

"REMEMBER NOVEMBER!"

Twelve million men are jobless in America today. The greed and stupidity and heartlessness of a great nation have stripped those men of every possession and tool—save one! THEY STILL HAVE A VOTE! AND THEY WILL USE THAT VOTE THIS NOVEMBER!

THERE IS THE ANSWER TO THAT BEATEN WOMAN'S DESPAIR.

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Do you avoid your poor relatives because you fear they might ask you for financial assistance?

While you might give it to an extent, without appreciable sacrifice on your part, you are unwilling to deny yourself certain luxuries that they may have necessities.

How much sympathy and human kindness have you in your makeup?

Not very much if you can know that your near and dear ones are suffering for necessities while you indulge yourself.

If you thought that these relatives might at some future time be of service to you, you might aid them—is that it?

Always thinking of self—never altruistic.

Those whom you are now avoiding may be sought by you sometime when you, yourself, may need assistance.

What do you think their attitude would be toward you in such case?

You may think you are fortifying yourself against disaster by your failure to help those whose kinship makes certain demands on you.

Instead you are destroying the props on which you may later wish to anchor.

Those who are able to help should aid those who are unable to care for and provide for themselves.

Just What Does Borah Mean?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

There is nothing in Senator Borah's speech which necessarily means a reversal of his position on the debts. He commends the Lausanne conference for its action on reparations—as does everyone else, we think. The Allies, in possession of the merchant fleet, the colonies, the trade of Germany, have collected as much as a victor should exact from the vanquished. The enormity of the reparations exacted staggered credulity at the time they were fixed in an atmosphere of insanity. Germany has paid as much as she can pay—and it has been enough.

Borah thinks it was a fine thing for the Allies to face the facts and slash reparations to a comparatively low figure. And says so. But this has been his position all along.

* * *

Would Let U. S. Pay If Europe Disarms

As to the debts owing the people of the United States, he has, from the beginning, said that he would be willing to have these debts paid by the people of the United States if the debtor nations would cut their expenditures for war purposes to the bone. And this, apparently, is his position now.

He does imply that prosperity will be passed around to everyone if the taxpayers of this country pay these debts of other nations that are in a less desperate plight economically than we—if something more is done by the debtor nations than has been done in the Lausanne conference.

Thus he says quite clearly:

"I am clear that the cancellation of these debts, with nothing more than the present reparations adjustment, would not have the effect"—of restoring prosperity.

In other words, he thinks that something worth while has been done if the Allies are prepared to take the German people off the cross as far as reparations are concerned; but nothing has been done to interest us so long as the debtor nations are spending billions in preparations for another war.

And, of course, nothing has been done to end that criminal imposition on a world sinking into the grave under the weight of taxes.

* * *

Debt 'Cancellation' Not Even Proposed

If the debtor nations cut their budgets on armament, and if it can be shown that the transfer of the debts to the taxpayers of this country "will start wheat and cotton to moving" and restore prosperity to us, Borah is prepared to consider "cancellation."

Again that utterly dishonest word "cancellation!" No one is even suggesting the cancellation of war debts. The only thing proposed is the transfer of these debts from the people who borrowed the money to the people who loaned it. Just now the people who borrowed the money are down in the books as debtors and we who loaned the money are down on the books as creditors. And Mussolini has described this as "the tragic bookkeeping of the war."

Tragic for whom?

We believe it is the usual way to keep books. What a lovely thing it would be for most of us if we could convince our creditors that it is "tragic bookkeeping" to have us down on their books as debtors—instead of writing themselves down as the debtors!

* * *

When Does Borah Want That Conference!

Senator Borah thinks there should be an immediate conference called on debts and everything economic and financial. He puts it thus:

"Such a conference ought to be authorized to deal with any economic and financial question which would have any legitimate bearing on the economic recovery of the world. We should not hesitate as a government to take our place in such a conference and be willing to deal with all economic and financial problems which are associated with the present condition of affairs."

Does he mean that he favors such a conference before the debtor nations have made the drastic cuts in their budgets for war purposes? They have made no such cuts yet. Nor is there any reason to believe they will.

This is a bit puzzling about the Senator's position. The arms reduction conference has failed utterly, notoriously. There is no new arms conference in immediate prospect. But he wants this international conference to deal with financial matters within the next two or three months at the utmost. Has he abandoned his position on armament? And if so, what does he mean by saying that before we can consider the transfer of foreign debts to the American people, more must be done than has been done at Lausanne?

* * *

But Borah Forgets Barriers of Tariffs

The senator would have a number of specified things on his agenda for this international conference.

First, reparation and debts.

Second, disarmament.

Here we wonder why, in view of the senator's off-reiterated stand, he does not logically put disarmament first.

Third, the re-establishment of the gold standard in the 31 nations that are off it now.

Fourth, the stabilization of silver in the Orient.

It will be observed that the trade barriers called tariffs that have ruined international trade—barriers that we put up first and invited the retaliation of other nations—are not to be considered.

Yet, nothing has done more to ruin the world.

He thinks the insurmountable barriers against trade must be lowered, not in an international conference, but by negotiations separately between the nations. The Democratic House under the leadership of Garner and Rainey, passed a tariff measure asking the President, who is more indebted to Borah for his first election than to any other single man, to enter into these negotiations and to sponsor such an international conference. We believe Borah voted for this Democratic plan. But Hoover vetoed it.

Is that the reason Borah does not include the trade-wrecking tariffs on his agenda?

* * *

Will Debt Transfer Aid Our Jobless?

Perhaps not; since Congress also unanimously passed a resolution asking the President to take the necessary steps for an international conference to consider the stabilization of silver in the Orient. And Borah has that on his program. And Hoover ignored that resolution.

Perhaps we need go no further than the desperation of the situation for an explanation for Borah's wholly unexpected speech. He says:

"The stakes are tremendous. Delay is hazardous. Sixty days of depression in the latter days of 1932 will be more devastating than six months in the latter part of 1930. If the upward trend does not start before the cold winds of December, conditions will be nothing less than appalling."

That is the reason Congress should not have adjourned leaving millions of the jobless with their women and children open to the cold winds of December. These have been ignored. And they will increase in number. Will the transfer of debts of other nations to us, without reductions in the appalling armaments budgets, without anything done on the tariff for the restoration of foreign trade, with nothing done for the stabilization of silver in the Orient, put these men to work before the cold winds of December?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Meeting

I do not know where it will be,
That place where we shall meet again;
Whether the forest or the sea
Will mark our rapture after pain.

But this I know, that when you pass
Along some smiling road to me,
The sun will brighten on the grass
And some will waken in the sea.

A sudden gleam will touch the sky;
A fragrant bloom will deck all trees,
Your footstep will revivify
Old Earth and wake spring's melodies.

Although no prescience is given,
No vision for my eager eyes,
I know Earth then will be like Heaven,
With sights and sounds of Paradise!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?
